Big Business and Politics
New Campaign Debate
No Truth Without Fear?
Dry News from Missouri

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE theory that big business men put big business ahead of everything seems unsound. Mr. Raskob accepted one of the biggest jobs in the country, the chairmanship of General Motors' financial board, to manage Governor Smith's campaign.

Now it is announced that Pierre S. Du Pont, chairman of General Motors' board of directors and biggest owner of the world's biggest industrial corporation, will also resign to work for Governor Smith.

• • •

IF Governor Smith believed in crests, and family mottoes, which he does not, he might select for his, "Nemo me impune lacessit."

Whoever wants a fight with him, or an answer, can get it.

• • •

DR STRATON, from his pulpit in Calvary Baptist church, New York, called Governor Smith "the deadliest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom."

Immediately Governor Smith demands an opportunity to answer Dr. Straton from the same pulpit. And that he will do, rejecting the clergyman's suggestion that they hire Madison Square Garden for a bigger crowd.

• • •

IT will be an interesting debate, something entirely new in a national campaign. Some of Dr. Straton's congregation feel that their church should not be used for political attacks, and that may start another row.

• • •

A WOMAN in Alabama is accused of killing her husband. In fact, as he lay dying, he said she killed him.

The woman's ingenious lawyer says: "The dying man was an unbeliever, next door to an atheist, did not even believe in hell. You can't take his testimony, because such a man would lie as readily at death's door as at any other time."

Very interesting point to be settled by an Alabama judge. Some men might conceivably tell the truth, especially in such a delicate matter, even without the fear of hell. In any case, the learned judge will probably look up the United States constitution, which has something to say about religion.

• • •

WETS will be amazed at news of a dry victory in Missouri. Charles M. Hay, running far ahead for United States senator, as a bone-dry candidate, appears to be nominated by the Democrats.

• • •

THIS is no test of Senator Reed's personal strength, although he opposed Hay. Reed retires from the senate after eighteen years' service, and both to the regret of his constituents.

But the Missouri vote is important, as it affects the national campaign, theoretically. Republicans profess to be greatly pleased with the result.

GERMANS seem to have perfected a plane for ocean flight. The giant machine, all metal, weighing 50,000 pounds, rose easily from the water, with only 250 yards' start, flew upward at a sharp angle, was easily handled and responded to tests landing on rough water. This hydroplane, intended for passenger flights from Ger-

STATE COMMISSION UPHOLDS C., D. & M

Service Connection Charge Justifiable, Is Official Ruling

A victory for the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. was scored yesterday afternoon when the state utilities commission rejected a complaint filed by Lewis Center residents, charging that the company refused to provide electric service in their homes until they agreed to pay certain connection charges.

In rejecting the complaint the commission held that it was not just nor reasonable to expect the electric company to furnish the complainants with power connections without charge. In filing the complaint the Lewis Center residents held that the C., D. & M. had no right to make extra charges for connections as the utilities commission had not approved any such charges.

In an order issued in connection with the rejection of the complaint the commission directed the C., D. & M. to file immediately a "proper schedule providing for its service commission charges."

SEAMAN INJURED

Sustains Fractured Skull in Shooting Fire Here

Aboard S. S. Algonquin, Aug. 9—(By radio to International News Service)—Seaman Washington of the Mallory liner Algonquin is suffering today from a fractured skull sustained when he aided in the rescue of five men adrift in the motor boat Clementine May, 83 miles north of Jupiter lighthouse on the east coast of Florida yesterday. The heavy seas, whipped up by the hurricane which has been sweeping Florida, made the rescue difficult and Washington was injured in helping to get the five men aboard the steamship.

The 300 passengers aboard the Algonquin cheered Capt. R. W. Lash for stopping to rescue the crew of the launch when the steamship was being badly buffeted by the high seas that

INJURED IN FALL

Mercury Report for Yesterday at High Mark; Expect New Record Today

First victim of the latest heat wave in Marion and vicinity was Virgil I. Altenberger, 310 Park blvd., an employe of the Marion Ice Co., prostrated early yesterday afternoon while delivering ice at the L. M. Eikenbary home, 1085 E. church st.

Mr. Altenberger had just left the Eikenbary home and was mounting the ice wagon when he collapsed on the street. He was taken to the Steward McNew home, 1097 East Church st., and was later removed to his home in the W. C. Boyd ambulance.

Relatives today gave his condition as improved. He is not believed to be in serious condition. In addition to his weakened condition due to the heat, Mr. Altenberger suffers from a wound sustained when his head struck the pavement when he fell.

88 at Noon Today

With the mercury at 88 at noon and steadily climbing, today promised to be even hotter than yesterday, when the mercury reached 92 degrees. This was equal to the high mark for the year, set Saturday, Aug. 4. No immediate relief is promised although local thundershowers are predicted for Friday.

The mercury dropped from the 92-degree mark late yesterday afternoon to 69 degrees last night. A year ago the temperature rose to 91 and dropped to 59 degrees in the night. Saturday, when the 92-degree mark was first reached this year, the mercury dropped to 70 degrees at night.

Prediction that today would be the hottest of the year was based on the fact that the temperature at noon to-

MORE THAN 450 GO TO EAGLES' MEETING

Marion To Have Large Representation in Parade at Columbus

Between 450 and 500 members of Buckeye Aerie, No. 337, Fraternal Order of Eagles, left this morning for Columbus where they were to represent the local lodge in the parade planned as one of the main features of the state and national conventions being held in that city this week. The parade is scheduled for afternoon.

Included in the delegation from this city was the Eagles band and drum corps, which will try for prizes to be awarded the best appearance made by musical organizations. The drum corps was awarded the prize at the state convention held in Youngstown last year.

The state convention will end with a meeting at the Neil House tonight while it is expected the national meeting will close Saturday.

Delegates from the local lodge to the two conventions went to Columbus, Sunday, in order to be present for the opening meetings Monday morning.

CLEAN SWEEP MADE IN 100-METRE SWIM

George Kojac Sets New Olympic Record at Amsterdam

Olympic Swimming Stadium, Amsterdam, Aug. 9—America made a clean sweep of the 100-meter backstroke final in the Olympic swimming championships today when George Jojac, New York; Walter Laufer, Chicago and Paul Wyatt, Uniontown, Pa., reached the finish line in that order.

Kojac, swimming the race of his life, was stirred in the new world's record figures of 1:08 1-5. Laufer was clocked in 1:10 and Wyatt in 1:12.

Thus, both Kojac and Laufer bettered the listed record of 1:11 2-5 and Wyatt missed it only by three-fifths of a second. An application by James House, America, for a record of 1:10 1-5, made in a 25-yard pool at New Haven, Conn., last year, has been pending before the international authorities. Kojac's record now will take precedence. The former Olympic record for the event, 1:13 2-5 was made by Warren Kealoha, the Hawaiian, at the Paris Olympics in 1925.

Russian Officials Inspect Marion Water Plant, Rank it One of Best Seen in Tour

THREE high officials of the city of Moscow, Russia, inspected the plant of the Marion Water Co., yesterday afternoon, and designated it as one of the most up-to-date and efficient they have seen in any of the cities visited by them in America.

The three, who comprise the Moscow water supply commission sent to this country to obtain information regarding modern water plant operations, were J. Andronov, president of the borough of Moscow, an office similar to that of mayor in an American city; A. Prudnikov, manager of the Moscow waterworks, and S. Ozerov, chief chemist of the laboratory at the Moscow water plant.

The visitors were especially impressed with the local water softening system, which had been described to them as one of the most up-to-date in the world.

Spend Two Hours Here

They arrived here at 3:50 o'clock and spent two hours at the local plant.

They were accompanied by C. B. Hoover, superintendent of the Columbus municipal waterworks, and Charles P. Hoover, chief chemist of the Columbus plant.

"We brought the Russian commission to Marion because the plant here is more modern than the one at Columbus," C. B. Hoover stated.

The Moscow officials praised the public water service in both Marion and Columbus, saying that

POLICE BOOST LIST IN STOP STREET DRIVE

Nearly 500 Marion Motorists Now Registered for Appearance in Court

Stop street traffic violators continue to fall into the net set by the police at various stop street intersections, according to Chief of Police Thompson, who said this morning that between 90 and 95 additional license numbers were registered by the police yesterday at various stop points on Bellefontaine av.

The additional license numbers listed by the police yesterday bring the total number of alleged violators reported in the campaign being carried on by the police to nearly 500, the chief said this morning.

Notices Prepared

Names and addresses of the owners of the cars are now being checked at the Marion Auto club office and notices ordering the owners to appear in municipal court next Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock are being prepared by three municipal court clerks.

More than 300 license numbers were secured by the police on Monday, the first day of the campaign for the enforcement of the stop street ordinance, while between 60 and 70 numbers were recorded Tuesday, the second day of the campaign.

Will Continue Drive

The drive against this type of violator will be continued, Chief Thompson said today, until it becomes generally known that city officials mean business in the enforcement of the traffic ordinance. Those who receive notices and fail to appear in court Wednesday will have excellent chances of being escorted to police headquarters by a uniformed patrolman, the chief said.

The manner in which the unusually large number of cases will be handled by the court on Wednesday, has not been definitely determined, Municipal Judge W. R. Martin said today. He stated that a satisfactory plan will be worked out and added a warning that all of those receiving notices must be present when his name is called.

CANDIDATES TURN ON TO HOME STRETCH

Sixty-Four Seeking Offices in State Winding Up Their Drive

Columbus, Aug. 9—Candidates for positions on the Republican and Democratic state tickets were swinging into the home stretch today in the political race which ends at Ohio's statewide primaries next Tuesday.

Winners of the primary contest, as nominees of their respective parties, will qualify as entrants for the major race which terminates at the polls during the general elections next November.

There are 64 candidates for the nominations for state offices to be made at Tuesday's primaries. Of these candidates, 36 are Republicans and 28 Democrats. The primary election will result in the selection of nominees for governor, lieutenant governor, U. S. senator (two to be chosen by each party), secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney general, and judges of the Ohio supreme court (two to be chosen by each party).

Ohio voters also will nominate candidates for congress, for the Ohio senate and house of representatives and for numerous county, municipal, village and other local offices.

League in Turmoil

Chief interest, to date, in the present state political campaign has been in the contest for the Republicans gubernatorial nomination. Partisan feeling, on a number of occasions, registered fever-heat during the past two or three weeks in connection with this contest.

The Ohio Anti-Saloon league has figured conspicuously in the efforts which are being made by Congressman James T. Begg, Sandusky; Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, and Attorney General Edward C. Turner, Columbus, to win the G. O. P. gubernatorial nomination.

Turner has been steadfast in his attack upon officials of the league and

The will, made in 1926, was filed for probate in London today.

FLIER KILLED

MAURICE DROUHIN

NOTED FRENCH FLIER DIES FROM INJURIES

Maurice Drouhin Fatally Hurt While Testing Plane for Ocean Flight

Paris, Aug. 9—Maurice Drouhin, noted French aviator, died today from injuries received when the tri-motored monoplane "Rainbow" in which he was to attempt a transatlantic flight next week crashed to the ground at Orly flying field during a trial flight.

Drouhin's mechanic, Lanet, was killed outright in the crash. Two others aboard the plane, Glanconi, an engineer and Manuel, a radio operator, were injured. Glanoli is said to be in a serious condition.

The crash was viewed by Rene Couzinet, designer of the plane, and Joseph Lebris, French world flier, who was to have accompanied Drouhin on his transatlantic attempt as navigator. Couzinet had been aboard the plane on all its previous flights and had stayed on the ground this time "because he wanted to see the plane in the air. "Lebris missed going up in the plane because he arrived at the flying field late. Both were deeply shocked by the tragedy.

SIMPLE SERVICES

Private Funeral for Brennan To Be Held at Home

Chicago, Aug. 9 — Simplicity will mark the funeral tomorrow of George E. Brennan, Democratic czar of Illinois, who died yesterday at the age of 63. His death, from a complication of diseases, terminated a long period of ill health.

Business and political associates of the late Democratic leader had hoped to give their chief an elaborate public funeral so that his legion of friends might have an opportunity to pay their final respects. But wishes of the family that Mr. Brennan be buried with the same quiet simplicity that marked his life, were acceded to.

Private funeral services, therefore, will be conducted in the family home on Sheridan rd. Later, friends will have opportunity to attend services to be held at our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic church.

It is understood that the firm will continue to function in the hands of a receiver, and that all commitments of the firm will be met in full.

RECORD VOTE IS FORECAST FOR PRIMARY

Marion's Absent Voters' Register Indicates Unusual Interest in Tuesday's Event

That Marion county voters will turn out to the polls next Tuesday in numbers far greater than has been customary at primaries in recent years is the prediction of election board officials and those in close touch with the primary campaign.

Already 212 persons have cast absent voters ballots. This is 103 more than the number that took advantage of the absent voting privilege in 1926, the last primary at which state and county officials were nominated. Saturday will be the last day for voting at election board headquarters or for making application for absentee voter's ballots. Ballots that have already been mailed, however, may be returned on or before the day of the primary, election board officials say.

Vote in 1926

In 1926 only 4,257 persons went to the polls in Marion county on the day of the primary, records at the board of elections here show. The normal voting strength of the county is said to be about 15,000. This figure could be greatly increased, it is said, if all eligible persons in the county would exercise their voting privilege. Out of a total of approximately 15,000 persons eligible to vote in Marion city, only about 12,000 are registered, according to election board officials. No estimate of the number of persons in the county, excluding Marion city, can be made, due to the fact that voters in the county are not registered.

At the primary two years ago, 2,412 Republicans and 1,845 Democrats went to the polls. These figures are based on the number of votes cast for the gubernatorial candidates of both parties.

In the city the vote was 1,648 Republican and 1,077 Democratic. The

TWO TROUBLE SPOTS THREATEN WITH WAR

Martial Law Pending in Jugoslav; Japan Warns Chinese Nationalists

(By International News Service)

Two trouble spots, each containing the threat of hostilities, exist today—one in the Orient and the other in the Balkans.

Following the death of Stefan Raditch, leader of the Croatian Peasant party in Jugoslavia, the movement for Croatian autonomy has gathered force and there are threats of civil war. The Jugoslav cabinet at Belgrade is considering a declaration of martial law throughout the whole kingdom. Government anxiety has been increased by discovery of a communist plot in Croatia, showing that Moscow is taking an active part in Jugoslav politics.

The whole Balkans may be affected by an outbreak. Italy is indirectly involved for two reasons. First, because it was furious friction over a proposed treaty with Italy that led to the recent assassinations in the Belgrade parliament when Raditch was fatally wounded and two others were killed; second, Italy has established a dominating position in Albania against Jugoslavia's wishes.

In the Orient Japan has informed the Chinese nationalists that the Japanese will never consent to Manchuria coming under nationalist rule. Soviet Russia is supporting the Chinese nationalists.

FEAR ANOTHER TROPICS STORM OVER FLORIDA

Damage to Rich Citrus Belt Estimated at Five Million Dollars

TOWNS IN DARKNESS

Parts of State Isolated as Result of Terrific Hurricane

Bulletin

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 9—The tropical hurricane which lashed the east coast and south central portion of Florida is centered over the peninsula today and is moving northwest about 15 miles north of Tampa with decreased intensity.

A. J. Mitchell, local forecaster, revealed there was little likelihood of the disturbance recurring, and he predicted that it will enter the Gulf of Mexico some time today.

Tampa and the west coast and the central section of the state was still cut off from communication today.

• • •

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 9—Centering over the rich citrus belt in the south central part of the state after causing damage on the east coast estimated at $5,000,000, the hurricane which has been ravaging Florida for the past two days rapidly neared Tampa and the gulf coast towns early today.

Rising winds of from 40 to 70 miles per hour were reported from towns 50 miles east of Tampa. In that city gale warnings were issued and shipping was held to the harbor.

No loss of life had been reported from the storm center early today, but nearly all wire communication was down. It was feared, however, that the rich citrus orchards in the path of the tropical storm would be ruined.

Told of Another Storm

Meanwhile towns of the lower east coast as far south as Palm Beach, engaged in removing the debris left in the wake of the hurricane, were warned by the weather bureau that another storm was sweeping in from the sea. This new disturbance was believed to be centering about 100 miles southwest of Porto Rico early this morning, and moving northwest or west northwest.

Indications were that the second storm would exceed its predecessor in intensity, the weather bureau reported. Last night, however, it was of but moderate intensity.

The total damage done by the tropical storm that lashed the Florida east coast for a stretch of 125 miles between Palm Beach and Titusville may exceed $5,000,000, it was conservatively estimated here.

Utilities Damaged

The greatest damage was suffered by the public utility companies, when miles of wires were torn down by the gale, leaving this territory without power and wire service for many hours. Telephone communication had been partially restored today.

Crops and young fruit trees suffered also, and scores of houses of light frame construction were uprooted in Fort Pierce, Vero Beach, Stuart, Melbourne and towns in that vicinity, Canal Point, Pahokee and places on

A detachment of 45 marines commanded by Capt. M. A. Edson, of Burlington, Vt., was attacked by a large force of bandits while encamped on the banks of the stream, according to Howard. Fierce fighting followed in which 10 of the bandits were killed.

The marines were greatly outnumbered but quickly organized their forces and put the bandits to route. News of the encounter came when planes brought the wounded marines here for medical attention.

MARION GIRL, 6, HIT BY TAXICAB

Mary Mogahey Victim of Accident in Columbus; Fear Skull Is Fractured

Mary Alice Mogahey, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Mogahey, who until recently resided at 295 Clinton av., and are now visiting in Columbus, sustained a possible fracture of the skull when she was struck by a taxicab when crossing North Fourth st. at Second av., Columbus, late yesterday afternoon.

The child, with her sister, Helen, 8, and parents are guests of relatives at 1037 North Fourth st., Columbus.

A childish urge to buy five cents worth of candy from a nearby store prompted Mary Alice and her sister to cross the street yesterday afternoon. In their hurry they failed to gauge the speed of a machine coming down Fourth st. Helen, sensing their danger, pulled her young sister back after the child had been struck by the front wheel of an independent taxicab driven by Curtis Patrick, 1590 Parsons av., Columbus.

Patrick swerved his cab to avoid running over the child and ran it upon a coal pile in the street.

The younger child was taken to White Cross hospital, where her condition is reported to be serious. Helen Mogahey was uninjured.

THOUSAND DEAD IN ERUPTION OF VOLCANO

Six Hundred Reported Injured as Rokatinda Blows Off

NEAR MALAY PENINSULA

Six Villages Destroyed and Nine Vessels Are Lost in Sea

London, Aug. 9—One thousand persons were reported killed and 600 injured in a violent eruption of the volcano Rokatinda on the Island of Paluweh, off the Malay Peninsula according to a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam this afternoon quoting reports received there from the Dutch East Indies.

The eruption, according to the Central news message, was accompanied by a series of terrific earthquake shocks.

Six villages were said to have been destroyed.

A large section of the seaboard was submerged and nine trading vessels were sunk.

Developed Suddenly

The volcano had long been grumbling and smoking. The eruption developed with suddenness and violence. Huge clouds of ashes, masses of molten lava and a veritable hail of rock shot from the crater. Volumes of smoke and steam rolled upward while flames flashed through the murk and loud rumblings came from the bowels of the mountain.

The earthquake shocks were believed to have rocked the bottom of the sea for they were followed by a tidal wave which rolled along the coast increasing the havoc.

WEALTHY WIDOW IS FOUND STRANGLED

Body Bound with Heavy Cords; House Ransacked by Intruder

Cleveland, Aug. 9—Strangled to death, presumably by burglars, the body of an aged and reputedly wealthy widow, Mrs. Agnes Klemenski, 69, was found in bed at her home here early today.

The body had been bound with heavy cord and a shipping bag was stuffed in the mouth, police said. Mrs. Stella Volk, a roomer, discovered the murder, she told police, when she returned to the house shortly before 2 o'clock this morning. The house had been ransacked, bureau drawers scattered about, and their contents thrown on the floors.

A bottle-peddler was sought by police in connection with the murder of Mrs. Klemenski.

Described as foreign-born and about 55 years old, the bottle peddler is believed to have been one of the last persons to see the woman alive.

REPORT DUPONT TO SUPPORT AL SMITH

Head of General Motors Likely To Make Statement Late Today

New York, Aug. 9—Reports that Pierre S. DuPont, chairman of the board of both the General Motors corporation and the gigantic E. I. Dupont De Nemours Co., would actively support the presidential candidacy of Gov. Alfred E. Smith were current in financial circles and at Democratic national headquarters today as the directors of General Motors assembled for their regular quarterly meeting.

DuPont, one of the wealthiest men in the United States, announced he would have an important statement to make at the conclusion of the board's session.

Reports in the financial district were that he would temporarily relinquish his place on the General Motors directorate in order to be free to devote himself to the Smith campaign.

The board is expected also to act upon the resignation of John J. Raskob as chairman of the finance committee, submitted over twelve days ago when he became national chairman of the Democratic National committee.

DuPont investments always have been identified with Republican parties and he served with Theodore Roosevelt in the Progressive party campaign in 1912. He was prominently mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for governor of Delaware in 1924.

PITTSBURGH STATION TO INAUGURATE PLAN

Final Experimental Tests Are Made at Westinghouse Plant

WORK ON RECEIVING SET

Expect Apparatus To Be at Price Within Reach of Average Man

Pittsburgh, Aug. 9—Radio movies are now an actual fact. And within the not too distant future, Westinghouse experts promise, they will be as common on the walls of homes as are now the voice and music of the ordinary radio receiving set.

Final experimental tests in the broadcasting of motion pictures were made at the Westinghouse plant here yesterday. Electrical wizards pronounced the broadcasting so perfect that announcement was made immediately by Westinghouse officials that station WDKA would inaugurate a regular broadcast of movies within a few weeks.

A special receiving apparatus will be required for the home reception of the air pictures. This is now in process of production, at a price within reach of present radio owners.

The apparatus consists of a ray of light which, when projected through small, regularly placed square holes around the circumference, throws sixty vertical lines to an inch through the motion picture negative.

These lines represent the lights and shadows of each of the myriad of individual pictures on the film—like sixty-line screen cuts used by newspapers. They are brought then into contact with a cylindrical electrifier which changes them into current varying in intensity with the lights and shadows they represent.

While no sound accompanied the projecting of the picture, it was said that photophone would be synchronized with the film when it finally is placed on the market.

MOTHER OF FIANCEE CONFIRMS REPORTS

Gene Tunney and Miss Lauder Will Be Wed This Year

New York, Aug. 9—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight pugilistic champion of the world, and Miss Mary Josephine Rowland Lauder of Greenwich, Conn., are to be married in the late autumn or winter.

This information was contained in a formal statement issued at South Bristol, Me., by Mrs. George Lauder of Greenwich, Conn., and New York, confirming reports circulated in the last few days of the engagement of Tunney and Miss Lauder.

Miss Lauder is a daughter of George Lauder, Jr., a nephew of Andrew Carnegie, and her family long has been in leading circles of society. Lauder inherited millions from his father, who was an associate of Carnegie's in the steel industry and greatly increased that fortune before his death. He was a prominent yachtsman. Tunney himself is believed to have saved nearly $2,000,000 from his ring activities.

Miss Lauder's mother was Katherine M. Rowland before her marriage. Miss Lauder is 21 years old and is a graduate of the Finch School for Girls in New York and of the Lenox School of New York. Tunney is 30.

Just when Tunney and Miss Lauder first met has not been disclosed but it is known that for more than a year he has been making frequent trips to Greenwich, where he has a marine cortes buddy in the person of Samuel Pryor, Jr. It is believed Tunney met Miss Lauder through Pryor.

PLAN THEIR WEDDING

Gene Tunney and "Polly" Lauder on St. John's Island

South Bristol, Me., Aug. 9—With guards patrolling the shores of St. John's island and cut off from the mainland by water, Gene Tunney and "Polly" Lauder today were discussing their wedding plans in what was described as "a perfect love sanctuary."

The engagement of Tunney and Miss Mary Josephine Lauder having been formally announced by the girl's mother, Mrs. George Lauder, interest turned to the date of the wedding, a ceremony which will unite the man who won the world's heavyweight championship and then relinquished the title, and the "$50,000,000 heiress," member of a socially prominent and wealthy family. The wedding will take place "in New York in the late autumn or winter" was the only announcement.

Existed Some Time

Osculatory greetings were missing when Gene and "Polly" met upon his arrival at the landing of the Lauder estate. As the launch containing the retired champion stopped and Tunney stepped ashore he was greeted with a cheery "Hello, Gene." "Hello, Joe" was his reply. The young couple walked toward the Lauder estate arm in arm. Wylie Erskine, the only eyewitness to the meeting told of it today. Gene evidently calls Miss Lauder "Joe", although she is known to her girl friends as "Polly."

Confidential friend of Tunney's disclosed today that the engagement existed for several months before the Tunney-Heeney fight. Tunney is Roman Catholic while his fiancee is a member of the Episcopalian church.

The marriage will not alter Tunney's plans for a tour of Europe, he having already booked passage for Aug. 16. Arriving abroad Tunney plans a walking trip through France and Germany with Thornto Wilder, author of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey."

Tunney now is a guest at the Lauder home in South Bristol but refused to make any comment on the announcement of his engagement.

Hemorrhoids Go
Piles Disappear Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned what quick and permanent relief can be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in hundreds of cases with a marvelous record of success, such a wonderful record that HEM-ROID is now sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Henney & Cooper today. It has given quick and lasting relief to thousands and should do the same for you or money back.—Adv.

BLAIR CITES GAINS OF OHIO'S BANKS

Increase in Combined Resources and Deposits Boosts Total to Four Billion

Columbus, Aug. 9—That "extraordinary gains" are shown by the combined resources and deposits of Ohio's state-supervised banks was the statement made today my E. H. Blair, state superintendent of banks. Blair announced that these financial institutions, on June 30, last, had resources totaling $2,371,407,719 and deposits aggregating $1,967,259,385, "the largest totals in the banking history of the state."

"The increase in the enormous volume of business handled by the reporting institutions materially strengthens Ohio's rank as the fifth largest banking state in the United States," said Blair.

"Between June 30, 1927, and June 30, last, resources increased $130,435,991 and deposits increased $99,588,597." Blair continued. "Between the calls of Feb. 28, last, and June 30, last, resources and deposits increased $67,043,235 and $49,751,143, respectively. (By the term "the calls" Blair meant the calls issued by the state banking department for reports on the condition of these banks).

"Savings deposit totals, which aggregated $960,443,462 on June 30, last, are particularly gratifying," Blair stated. "In this type of deposits during the year there was a gain of $82,545,629 and between Feb. 28, last, and June 30, last, a gain of $37,827,206.

"To the credit of the people of the state, it may be asserted that there has been a consistent and steady growth in their savings accounts for several years, a trend which reflects high standards of living and an economic situation in the commonwealth which is decidedly wholesome and reassuring."

LARGE MOTOR TRUCK DESTROYED BY FIRE

Defective Wiring Assigned as Cause of Blaze North of Marion

A large motor truck belonging to H. E. Baker, of Toledo, was destroyed by fire on the Likens rd., north of the city, early yesterday afternoon. The blaze, which is thought to have started from a defective wire, was discovered shortly after the truck had left the plant of the Ohio Blue Lime Stone Co., and in spite of efforts on the part of the driver to extinguish the flames, the truck was destroyed.

A call was sent in to the central fire station here, but because of the ruling not to respond to calls in the rural district, firemen did not make the run.

WITH STAR STAFF

HISTORIC HOUSE

MARION has been the home of a president and as such has gained international fame.

Now this year's nominations reveal that there is in the city a man who was born in the house of the father of the wife of one of the presidential candidates. Figure that out for yourself.

The Marion resident who has this distinction is John H. Stoll, veteran shoe merchant. Mr. Stoll was born in Wooster, Sept. 1, 1853, in the house which was the birthplace of C. H. Henry, father of Mrs. Herbert Hoover. A picture of the home appeared in a recent issue of The Star.

A collection of data regarding the early history of the house which was formerly in Mr. Stoll's possession has been lost. His parents moved from the home when he was about two years old.

• • •

NARROW ESCAPE

CITY officials may lay down rules but sometimes even the most law-abiding citizens find absolute observance difficult. Even the officials themselves are occasionally provided with first-hand evidence to that effect.

A few nights ago at a [illegible] crossing stop traffic was heavy and going at a steady rate of speed. The motorists as a whole, though, had been careful about stopping at the intersection. Drivers of a Ford tourist car filled with children and operated by a woman, and a coupe with a prominent city official as one of its passengers evidently failed to see the signs painted on the street or else miscalculated the speed of their cars.

The cars, going in cross directions, missed crashing by a decidedly narrow margin. When the coupe slowed down on the other side of the street, the municipal official was seen drawing in his leg from the outside step and closing the door, according to all appearances he had been ready to jump.

• • •

TOO FRIENDLY

CLOSE friends, that is close enough that they pound you on the back when they greet you, should be more careful of the weight behind the slap. Yesterday morning about 7:30 o'clock, some good old-timer of the courthouse was passing on the good news to one of his buddies and with the story went a familiar slap on the back.

The slap went too far. The receiver of the choice bit of scandal and pounding, gulped several times and then made a dive across the courthouse plaza.

One of the loud guffaws had detached his fals teeth, sending them hurling through the air.

• • •

HEAT WAVE MISHAP

THE heat affects different persons in different ways.

Some have difficulty in keeping their mental functions running at high gear and practically everybody slows up physically, or at least in physical exertion.

Those who [illegible] whether the temperature is over the boiling point or at a lower [illegible] degree are in the vast majority. Included in that [illegible] working on the were several carpenters working on the remodeling of a building in Marion several days ago.

At a period in the day when Old Sol was sending down his most sweltering rays, the men started boarding up a section of the house when was nearing completion. It was a relief to find at least a part of their task almost out of the way.

When the last of the boards were about to be put in place, a noise from within caused an investigation. The result was that a part of the work had to be undone, for the carpenters found they had imprisoned one of their associates in the enclosure.

• • •

TIRE COSTS

MOTORING, once a pastime within the means of only those most richly blessed wherewithal, is getting steadily cheaper.

As proof of this, a Marion tire agency has figured up an interesting comparison between tire costs now and those of 20 years ago. It is shown that motorists on vacation tours this summer may figure their tire costs at $4 for each 2,000 miles they travel, or 25 miles for a nickel. At today's price they can drive 2,000 miles, or the approximate distance from Chicago to San Francisco, for $4 in tire money, $1 for each tire on the car. The cost represents the wear on the four tires in purchase price money, based on the very minimum mileage high grade tires are capable of giving.

Twenty years ago, with higher prices and "3,500-mile guarantee" tires, the motorist in his linen duster and open car would drive only 250 miles for his $4 in tire money according to the local dealer's computations.

The price of automobiles tires since the early days of the automobile has been reduced approximately 50 per cent while mileage during the intervening years has increased several hundred per cent, according to a summary of this comparison.

Schneider's Hardware is one of the oldest business establishments in Marion. In 1904 Beverly & Schneider bought out J. W. Wren, and in 1912 Beverly sold his interest to the present firm J. Schneider & Sons. The retail hardware store was conducted in conjunction with a sheet-metal shop and the latter has grown to such an extent that it is now necessary to devote all our time to sheet metal work, roofing, spouting, furnaces and heating.

We have decided to quit the retail business and completely close out our retail stock. WE WILL SELL HARDWARE, HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS, GAS AND COAL RANGES, PAINTS AND VARNISHES AT PRICES BELOW COST. The sale will include every item in our regular stock, and not one special sale item has been bought. We have slashed the prices on this high-grade, guaranteed merchandise. Sale prices are so low that it will pay you to anticipate your needs for the next few years. The sale will continue until every article is sold, but the early buyer will get the best selection.

HANE SETS MARK

Eagles Beat Yardmen, 14-2

LOCAL COUNTRY CLUB COURSE MADE IN 70 DURING TOURNAMENT

Record Is One Stroke Above Score Made by Lima Pro

FIRST ROUND OVER

Second Round Matches To Be Completed by Monday

BY KARL R. M'ELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

THE battle for the championship of the Marion country club took on a different angle today when H. W. Hane set a new amateur record for the course in defeating W. J. Locke, eight up and six to go.

Yesterday Hane went 18 holes in 70, four strokes under par and three under the best previous amateur record. The lowest score chalked up before was 73 which Hane has made on two occasions. The best record for the course was made by Larry Nabholtz, former pro at the Shawnee club at Lima, was 69. This has never been equaled.

Hane in setting the new mark was one stroke over par on three holes. He equaled par on nine and was under on six. Going out he shot nine holes for a total of 34 strokes and coming in made it in 36.

His card follows:

Out:
Hole—	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total
Par—	5	4	3	5	5	3	4	4	4	—37
Hane—	5	5	3	4	3	3	4	4	3	—34

In:
Hole—	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	Total
Par—	5	4	3	5	5	3	4	4	4	—37-37—74
Hane—	4	5	3	4	4	4	4	4	4	—36-34—70

As a result of his score this season, Hane is being favored to win the tournament unless Bob Owens, 15-year-old winner of the two handicap tournament, shows a vast improvement.

In matches yesterday Dan LaMarche defeated John Dugan, eight up and six to play; K. M. Bower defeated F. J. Longshore, four up and three to play; George Wright won over Dan Evans, four up and three to play; C. F. LaMarche won by default over T. W. Fairhurst.

K. M. Bower vs. H. W. Hane.
Dan LaMarche vs. Robert Owens.
George Wright vs. J. M. Gardner.
C. F. LaMarche vs. J. J. Hane.

In these matches Hane is favored to win the first. Robert Owens should take over Dan LaMarche but must pick up a little in his game. Gardner is expected to stop George Wright while the next will be close with Hane having a slight edge.

Son of Famous Spitballer Is Pitcher Like His Daddy

Young Ed Walsh Brings Back Olden, Golden Days of Baseball

GHOSTS of the past hovered over Yankee Stadium the other day. For a brief space the olden, golden days of baseball were back. Out there on the mound the son of a famous father pitched the kind of ball that his daddy used to pitch, losing his game only when the game's greatest batsman lammed out his thirty-ninth homer of the season.

It was a typical Ruthian smack that the big fence-buster uncorked in the fatal seventh, and the crowd rose to its feet, and acclaimed the hero. But the biggest cheer of the afternoon went up as young Ed Walsh, the son of Big Ed of White Sox fame, trudged to the clubhouse, relieved by a pinch hitter in the eighth.

For this youngster with a right arm of braided steel, a mouth out of the classic halls of Notre Dame, had turned back the crowding years and showed the kind of stuff that made Big Ed the greatest spitball pitcher of his time and one of the greatest of all time. For five innings he held the Yanks in the hollow of his big hand, hitless and runless. For six innings he dipped them in kalsomine with a strong right arm that gave off a baffling fast ball and a knuckle ball and a deceptive change of pace.

Serene, impassive, businesslike, this scion of a great daddy went along, making the Yankees' "murderers' row" look silly, while his parent and mentor, Big Ed, looked on critically from the Chicago dugout.

Then it happened. In the seventh, with two balls and no strikes the count on Ruth, young Ed lammed one over the inside and high and George Herman blasted it over the fence into the bleachers.

Young Ed then and there became a member in regular standing of the Babe's little class of serious thinkers.

Young Ed Walsh is the product of twenty-years of coaching on the part of his dad, for the boy has had a baseball in his hand ever since he was a blue-eyed baby and lay in an old-fashioned cradle in a little house in Meridian, Conn. Big Ed was wheeling them in those days, the stout-hearted mainstay of the Chicago White Sox. And he vowed when the boy grew up he, too, would wear a White Sox uniform and hear, as he was hearing, the roar of admiring multitudes.

The younger Walsh is slightly more than six feet, weighs about 190 and is a natural athelete.

THE Commercial league continued to move along peacefully without the slightest bit of fireworks featuring contests played last night in which the Eagles stayed in first place followed in second by the Shovel A. A.

The only changes in the standings was when the Kappas moved up to third and the Marion Star dropped out of a tie with Kiwanis-Silk Mills.

The Eagles walloped the Erie Yardmen, 14 to 2. Forty legal times-at-bat were scored by the Eagles and 19 hits gave them the 14 runs. The Shovel A. A. was given a game by the Baptists.

The Marion Star stepped out of their losing streak by defeating the Kiwanis-Silk Mill aggregation, 5 to 1. Kerr held the Kiwanis sluggers to three hits and his team mates made but one error in the field.

Isaly Dairies had quite a battle with the Erie Clerks winning, 2 to 1. The Kappas ran wild in their game with the K. of P. with the fraternal boys taking the count at 10 to 1.

WOODS and WATERS by Homer Bow

Squirrel Prospects

When the first day of October rolls around this year, Ohio hunters will have the first chance to shoot squirrels since the season closed in 1926.

A great scarcity resulted in legislation being made which prohibited shooting squirrels in any year ending with an odd number. The relief was immediate, as 1927 became a closed season.

Further legislation changed the hunting season's opening to Oct. 1 and the bag limit was cut from five to four. This law is in effect at the present time.

The results of protective laws have been rather gratifying, if reports of observers over this part of the state are true. Marion sportsmen who hunt this year should not have to go far from home or have a great deal of trouble in getting the day's limit of four squirrels, and they probably will be able to do that several days in the shortened season.

Game conditions in general are bright for this fall and unless something unforeseen arises, there should be the best hunting for some years in the state, as far as game quadrupeds are concerned.

Pheasants seem to be fairly plentiful, but have a tendency to congregate in certain areas, rather than being spread well over Marion and nearby counties. This enables hunters to take more than they would were the birds spread.

Information on Hungarian partridges is very meager. The birds are still strangers to the majority of Ohio hunters. The fish and game division is going ahead with an intensive stocking program and it is probable that the birds will increase rapidly.

Hoover Misses Out

The fact that one is chosen by the Republican party to contest this autumn's presidential election with Al Smith, coupled with knowledge that the nominee is a real fisherman, does not seem to be an insurance policy that the angler will catch fish.

News reports in the past week told of Herbert Hoover staying on trout grounds so long that those in camp were worried and that the party returned with one trout.

Mr. Hoover is said to have stated upon his return that he favored more and better fish and less time between strikes.

I wonder what he would have said if they would have handed him a cane pole and a can of bait and sent him out on the average Ohio lake. Probably the same thing.

* * *

Bluegill in Schools

Bluegill time is here! These little chaps of the lake have schooled up and afford the fishermen some of the best angling of the year. The cane pole artist is at his best.

Ohio's bluegill (Lepomis Pallidus), is one of the tastiest morsels that come from Ohio. Many people state that it compares favorably with the trout as a table delicacy.

Bluegill are often a bit fastidious. The garden worm has long been a favorite bait, but brickets, week worms, mill roaches and other insect baits are more effective at times.

Pine Lake, Westville reservoir, the Portage lakes and many other bodies of water in this locality afford bluegill fishing.

WALLACE BEERY in Blindfold test of leading cigarettes . . . says no brand can "double" for OLD GOLD

WALLACE BEERY
. . . popular Paramount screen star . . . who plays the leading dramatic roles in "Beggars of Life" and "The Tong War."

"You have heard of some actors that can't be 'doubled' in the movies. Well, OLD GOLD is like that. No other brand can 'double' its fine flavor and smoothness—even in the dark. That's why I picked it in the blindfold test. And that's why—from now on—OLD GOLD and I are going to be 'Partners in Crime.'"

Wallace Beery

Why you can pick them . . . Three types of leaves grow on the tobacco plant . . . coarse sub-leaves, irritating to the throat . . . withered ground-leaves, without taste or aroma . . . and the heart-leaves, rich in cool and fragrant smoking qualities. Only the heart-leaves are used in OLD GOLDS.

© Lorillard Co., Inc. 1928

Made from the heart-leaves of the tobacco plant

How the test was made . . .

This test was conducted by the representative of a leading Eastern university and a disinterested witness selected by them. Mr. Beery was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, while blindfolded, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "Which one do you like best?" He chose OLD GOLD.

FORMER CUP HOLDER SENDS CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH TO 19 HOLES

Both Women Shoot Even in Medal and Match Play

Mrs. H. R. Stoll Loses Nineteenth Hole by One Stroke

AFTER playing 18 holes to a tie, Mrs. K. M. Bower won the women's championship of the Marion country club yesterday by defeating Mrs. Howard R. Stoll on the nineteenth hole.

Mrs. Stoll held the women's championship cup last year.

Going out Mrs. Bower was one up on her opponent. The winner took three holes while Mrs. Stoll won two. The remaining four were halved.

Coming in Mrs. Stoll played her best golf to finish one up on Mrs. Bower. This tied the score making the one-hole playoff necessary. Mrs. Bower shot a par five while last year's champion took a six.

The scores of both women were very close. For the 18 holes each turned in a card of 106. Coming in the best scores of the day were turned in with Mrs. Bower getting a 52 while Mrs. Stoll shot one less.

The two finalists survived match-play in which 16 women participated. The tournament started several weeks ago.

The summary of the match follows:

Rheumatism Kept Him In Constant Misery: He Says

Konjola Banished Every Ache and Pain, and Restored New Health and Energy

MR. ARTHUR F. BROWN

"I was in constant misery from rheumatism, but since taking Konjola my suffering is gone and I am glad to let others know about it," said Mr. Arthur F. Brown, 636 Homewood Avenue, Warren, Ohio.

"Rheumatism first settled in my right arm, but as the days passed it gradually became worse and spread throughout my body. Then both arms were affected and it was impossible for me to use them. Finally the pains settled in my legs and I couldn't even walk a short distance. I was very discouraged and had given up hope of being relieved.

"None of the medicine relieved me, but Konjola proved to be an exception. The first bottle began to help me and I noticed the aches and pains easing up. As I continued with the treatments every trace of rheumatism was driven from my body. My arms and limbs are now free and active and I can do my work and get around just as I did before."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health through this wonderful medicine. A vast number of sick and ailing people in this and other parts of the country are praising this rare medicinal product and say Konjola is the most highly talked of medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Marion at Rose Pharmacy, 128 N. Main St., and in all other good towns by well established druggists. Advertisement.

FREDERICKS TAKES LEAD IN TOURNEY

Defeats Paul Emmenegger in Straight Sets on Galion Courts

Galion, July 9—George Fredericks, one of Galion's youngest ranking tennis players, forged into the lead of the city tennis tournament last night when he defeated Paul Emmenegger in straight sets in the opening match of the second round.

Emmenegger has ranged among the foremost of members of the Galion Tennis Club's team for the past several seasons, but lacked the speed shown by his opponent in last night's match.

In the first round, R. Horn, N. Weber, J. Mattacks, G. Callender were eliminated and Hauley forfeited to Whitehead.

The woman's tournament will be played next week, according to announcement made by Erman Herr, president of the club. A trophy similar to the one offered for the regular club championship will be awarded.

Often you have to tease the friend you want to help in order to get him to tell you what his troubles are.

When a youth leaves home to make his fortune, he leaves a lot of good food behind.

In hot summer weather it requires considerable mental application merely to devise ways to keep cool.

GETS "SHINER"

New York, Aug. 9—James J. Braddock, Jersey City light-heavyweight who acted as a sparring partner for Tom Heeney, was nursing a badly swollen left eye today. He received the "shiner" last night in a 10-round bout at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, with Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, Ohio. Sekyra won the decision by pasting Braddock's injured orb in the last three rounds, and was not particularly impressive in the earlier beats.

EAGLES BOOK SPEEDY TEAM FOR SUNDAY'S CONTEST AT LINCOLN

Visitors Hold Championship of Toledo Baseball Federation

CHAMPIONS of the Toledo baseball federation, the Page Dairys baseball team will meet the Marion Eagles at Lincoln park Sunday afternoon.

The Page team won the Toledo championship by defeating the Ludwig Lane Dairys, 8 to 0 and 13 to 3 in a double header played on July 22.

This team is the outstanding aggregation in the northern Ohio metropolis and should give the Eagles a real workout. The locals are appearing Sunday with the same team that has played in the last several games. The players have greatly benefited from the rainout of last Sunday.

BUCYRUS LOSES

Indiana Harbor Nine Defeats Team, 6 to 1, at Lane Field

Bucyrus, Aug. 9—A large crowd of fans witnessed the baseball game Wednesday afternoon at the Lane street field when the Indiana Harbor N. Y. C. team defeated the Bucyrus N. Y. C. nine by a score of 6 to 0.

Timely hitting, good base running and fielding by the visiting team won the game although the locals made the same number of base hits.

National League's Pennant Race Takes on New Aspect

By LES CONKLIN

New York, Aug. 9—The National league pennant race took on an entirely new aspect today as the result of New York's two victories in three games with St. Louis, seven straight wins by Pittsburgh, Philadelphia's clean sweep in the four-game Chicago series and the eight straight defeats suffered by Cincinnati in the intersectional engagements just concluded. The newly-found strength of the Phillies and the Braves, who whipped the Reds twice yesterday, means that John McGraw's fighting Giants will have able allies when they begin their final invasion of the west next week.

St. Louis won nine games and lost six in the east, while the inspired New York team took 13 out of 17 and now trail the leaders by only 4½ games. The Cards have won seven games and lost eight against the Giants, and have seven more contests with the New Yorkers on their schedule. The league leaders face the fast-stepping Pirates today and later on they must play 11 more contests with the Reds and Cubs, against whom they have won only, 10 games and lost 17 during the season to date.

In their last three games with St. Louis the Giants dented the plate 24 times, outscoring the Cards 2 to 1. Yesterday the McGrawmen got off to a 10-run lead, kayoed Wee Willie Sherdel in the fourth inning when they scored six runs and won 10 to 5.

The Philly team which has wrecked the Cubs is composed entirely of young blood with the exception of Sand, and even he has been decorating the bench at times lately. Manager Shotton is seeking more long distance hitters like Don Hurst and has found one in Chuck Klein, rookie outfielder. Klein has walloped three homers in his first week. He got one yesterday which helped the Phils beat the Cubs, 4 to 3.

The pitching of Bob Smith and Delaney and Sisler's hitting featured Boston's 12 to 1 and 6 to 3 victories over the Reds. In the Nightcap Smith yielded only two hits, both singles and both made by Wallie Pipp. Sisler collected six hits.

Glenn Wright had a lucky day as Pittsburgh nosed out Brooklyn 4 to 3 beating the Dodgers by one run for the third game in succession. Wright drove in two runs after catcher Deberry dropped a foul from his bat. Later outfielder Herman lost Wright's fly in the sun. It went for a triple and was converted into the winning run.

No American league contests were scheduled yesterday. Lefty Heimach, New York's new pitcher, is scheduled to work against the Red Sox today when the Yanks play Boston.

GET $1,000,000 ORDERS FOR AIRPLANE ENGINES

Boston, Aug. 9 — Contracts for a million dollars worth of airplane engines, the opening or planning of nearly two dozen airports and the incorporation of several airplane and airplane accessories companies were the immediate developments of the second New England aviation conference, held here under the auspices of the New England Council.

The engine order to a Hartford, Conn., company, is said to be the largest single order ever placed in the history of commercial aviation. It involves 105 Hornet engines, each of 500 horsepower, and 10 of the 400 horse power wasp engines.

LITTLE WORLD SERIES SCHEDULED FOR FIRST WEEK IN SEPTEMBER

Commission To Settle Lee Street-Epworth Junior Dispute Monday

MARION'S greatest recreation ball season will get under way on Tuesday, Sept. 4, when the little world series to decide the championship of the city start.

Games will be played on Sept. 4, 5, 7, 10, 12 and 14 according to plans announced last night by members of the commission at a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A.

Three protests were dismissed by the commission while the Lee Street-Epworth Junior fight was reopened for hearing. The question will be settled at a meeting Monday night.

Umpires will not be named until the season closes. Managers of the four pennant winners will be called in at that time and the officials will be named.

RICHMAN'S CLOTHES

From the Richman Factories Direct to You

Fashionable—Dependable—Yet Surprisingly Low in Price

EVEN CLOTHING EXPERTS can scarcely tell Richman's Clothes from the expensive kind—they look costly in every detail—the authentic style, the luxuriously rich woolens, and the beautifully finished tailoring leave nothing to be desired. And they are famed for unusually long wear. The difference is mainly in the price—and the Richman price is the logical result of huge cash sales, direct from our factories to you—the favorable purchase of fine materials in great quantities for cash—the scientific volume production methods employed in our incomparable factories—and above all else, perhaps, the loyal efficiency of employes who share with us responsibility for your satisfaction because they are part owners of this business.

STUDY PESTS TO SAVE PEACH CROP

Attempt To Eradicate Strange Disease from Georgia Orchards

Raleigh, N. C., Aug .—An attempt now is being made to eradicate the strange disease which is menacing the huge peach industry of the Carolinas and Georgia.

Dr. John G. Dunegan, plant pathologist of the U. S. Government, is now studying the disease in the famous Sandhill peach growing section of this state.

In some sections, according to reports the crop has been damaged 75 per cent by the bacteriosis. The plant specialist was obtained through the efforts of North Carolina Senators and representatives.

Money Market Problems Wipe Out Gains In Industrial Ranks

BANK SUPERVISION OF MONEY LENDING ENDS

New Process Will Cut Financial Houses Out of Considerable Income

COVER G. M. C.

Dupont's Retirement from Board Fails To Affect Wall Street

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, Aug. 9—Money market problems and uncertainties thrust themselves upon a dull and unsteady stock market today, and most of the gains in industrial stock prices scored in the early period of short-covering were wiped out.

Plans of the corporation money-lenders were reported to have broken away from banking supervision of their loans in the speculative market, and to be ready to deal directly with the brokerage houses in lending money on collateral. This process, if carried to any great extent, will rob the banks of a considerable income, and doubtless further complicate money market matters. Money supplies showed no evidence of increase, and the rate ruled at seven per cent for call loans. Professionals covered up their short lines of General Motors to avoid being caught unawares by any special development at the directors' meeting of that corporation after the close of the market today. Nothing more than the usual $1.25 dividend was expected, but General Motors has a habit of doing the unusual thing. Nothing of importance "leaked out" with respect to the action of Chairman Pierre S. DuPont, but Wall Street was quite convinced that Mr. DuPont's retirement from the board, if it eventually came about, would in no way affect the DuPont holdings of General Motors stock. Neither the DuPonts nor the Raskobs were liquidating stock, according to those in a position to know.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Markets were free of any unusual features here today. Supplies of nearly all kinds of seasonable fruits and vegetables were available and prices were changed little from yesterday. Blackberries for canning were being advertised by dealers, although the supply was not large and the price held around 18 cents. That berries may be cheaper next week is the prediction of dealers.

California pears and plums continue to supply a large demand at 15 cents a pound for the former and 12 cents a pound for the latter. Georgia peaches continue plentiful. Dealers were carrying large supplies today selling at from $1.50 to $2.25 a bushel. The quality is good and dealers report a large sale.

Sweet corn was slightly more plentiful today and was selling at 25 cents a dozen, the lowest price reached this season. A further decrease in price as the supply becomes still more plentiful was being promised by dealers today.

Home-grown tomatoes are holding at two pound for 25 cents. The supply is large and several dealers were offering good quality stock at $1.20 for a half-bushel basket. Home-grown potatoes were selling today at from 23 to 30 cents a peck. Beans continue only fairly plentiful and were selling today at 10 cents a pound or two pounds for 15 cents.

Transparent apples were being quoted today at three pounds for 25 cents. Watermelons continue plentiful and dealers were asking 35, 40 and 45 cents each. Cantaloupes continue to sell at 10 and 15 cents. The supply is large and dealers report a steady demand. Honeydew melons were selling as low as 10 cents today, although larger sizes were holding at from 35 to 45 cents.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, Aug. 9—Wheat prices broke badly yesterday in the liquidating market which, due to favorable crop conditions and slow export trade, has lasted for five consecutive days. New lows for the crop and for the past four years were registered. Weakness of the foreign markets was an important factor in the sharp decline here.

Corn was weak early and prices slipped with wheat, but later short covering lent strength to the September delivery and most of the losses were recovered. Oats prices were lower and rye almost kept pace with wheat in the downward movement.

At the close wheat was 2@2½c lower; corn, nearly to ¾c off; oats ¼@⅝c lower and rye was down 1½@2¾c. Winnipeg futures finished 1⅝@2c off.

Foreclosure Sale

Liquidation, hedging and selling credited to foreign interests persisted in the wheat pit and prices moved steadily downward. Stop-loss orders were uncovered and sellers of the principal were forced to protect themselves. Near the close some additional buying and short covering resulted in a recovery of part of the losses.

Liquidation against the cash grain and export trade and lower cables also influenced the trade in corn, but commission house buying and short covering on the sharp decline were the principal factors. Cash demand was slow and prices were easier.

Weakness of provisions was due largely to the sharp break in the hog market.

Broomballs' estimate that the exportable surplus of wheat this season will be $15,000,000 bu. more than a year ago and import requirements will be only 27,000,000 more was another depressing influence on a market already glutted with bearish news. Surpluses will total 1,104,000,000 bu and import requirements 824,000 bu., the statistician estimates.

Report Due Today

The United States government report is due today. Ordinarily the day preceding a government report is characterized by a light trade, with evening up transactions constituting the bulk of the business. Yesterday's "evening up" appeared to consist mainly of selling by longs who are indisposed to carry a line of wheat over today, conditions being what they are in the wheat trade of the world.

Late advices from seaboard gave export sales of 1,250,000 to 1,500,000 bu. of wheat.

Cash wheat was weak and lower, with prices 1@2c down and the basis steady to 2c lower. There were no local shipping sales reported. A total of 122,000 bu. was booked to arrive, mainly from Omaha.

Corn had a heavy tone in the early trading, due to pressure on the far months caused by favorable weather and a message from Texas asking for bids on new corn, fifteen-day shipment.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

"Mudslinging" Barred by Hoover in Campaign; Smith Refuses Plan of Straton

Republican Nominee Awaits Arrival of Senator Moses in California

Stanford University, Cal., Aug. 9—With his formal notification 48 hours away, Herbert Hoover today barred "mudslinging" from his campaign for the presidency.

The Republican nominee let it be known that he will not countenance any personalities in the campaign either against his Democratic rival, Gov. Alfred E. Smith, or other prominent Democratic party leaders. He placed "mudslinging" under the same ban he recently put upon the "barnstorming" plans and "ballyhoo" programs, devised by his enthusiastic personal friends.

The candidate was looking forward today to the arrival of Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the notification committee. Senator Moses will deliver the notification address at the exercises here Saturday in Stanford stadium. A copy of Moses' speech was sent the nominee some time ago and he returned it to the senator with a number of suggestions, which materially changed its contents.

Moses will bring the revised speech with him. It was said the speech would be perfunctory in accordance with Mr. Hoover's wishes, and devoid of the "wisecracks" which illumined the senator's address as permanent chairman at the Kansas City convention.

Democratic Nominee Insists He Answer Challenge in Church Pulpit

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 9—Gov. Al Smith today was awaiting with keen interest a formal reply from the Rev. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York, whom he challenged to debate after the clergymon had characterized him as the deadliest foe in America to moral progress.

Dr. Straton's suggestion that the debate take place in Madison Square Garden and that later they campaign through the south, debating Smith's political career, will be flatly rejected by the governor, according to his advisers. The executive will insist that Dr. Straton permit him to defend his stand on moral issues from the pulpit of Calvary church where the attack originated.

In the event that Dr. Straton refuses to open his church to the governor the latter plans to issue a formal statement within the next few days in which he will reply not only to the New York minister but also to William Allen White, Kansas editor. White recently assailed the governor, insisting that his record when a member of the state assembly showed he always voted to protect the saloon and the liquor traffic.

Silhouette Feature of Fur Styles

Even while sweltering in the midsummer heat Milady is always anxious to know what sort of furs will keep her warm when the first snow flies. One might think she is trying to suggest a bit of coolness for herself but the truth is probably that the average American woman is forward looking, which accounts for her being admittedly the best dressed in the world. And so the best retail stores in the country hold their August fur sale to tantalize the feminine pocketbook.

All sorts of furs make their bow to the passers by, but the most prominent of these is Caracul and other soft, pliant furs capable of being modeled to the designer's idea of lines, but it is silhouette that counts in the new fur coat.

Black Caracul which is expected to have a wide vogue is trimmed with marten, sable, and other brown furs. Other Caraculs are oten made up into charming designs in beige, brown, cream and platinum shades.

The well dressed woman will be interested in this wonderful display of fur coats. August is the time to secure an exclusive model made from the choicest selected skins and priced in the August sale for less money than will be possible in November.

In connection with our August sale of furs we are showing the advanced models in cloth coats. Every model is exclusive and trimmed with magnificent collar and cuffs of choicest fur. Every advantage is offered to our customers in the way of price, credit, and storage.

ARTIFICIAL flowers so realistic that the deception is only detected by the absence of odor have long been commonplace; but now that edefficiency has been so remedied that it will require almost a botanist to detect the difference. Rosalie has acquired these new flowers which originated in France, and which are obtainable in many varieties, each containing enough perfume of the natural flower to last a year. Rosalie is wearing them with her new jacquette ensemble, which is suitable for both afternoon wear and for dining and dancing. In the latter case the jacket renders it unnecessary to take a wrap for wear between dances.

WARNING IS ISSUED BY HEALTH OFFICER

Parents Urged To Guard Children Against Danger of Infantile Paralysis

With arrival of the season when infantile paralysis usually becomes more prevalent, Dr. W. J. Weiser, health commissioner, today issued a warning to parents against the neglect of any illness in children, no matter how slight. While no cases of the dreaded disease have been reported either in the city or county, it is the hope of the health commissioner, in event the disease should appear, to isolate the case immediately and take every precaution to prevent a spread of the malady.

"During the warm months people mingle and visit freely and travel to a greater degree and to many more places, and thus the disease is spread," the health commissioner said. "While it is hoped that the scourge of last year will not revisit Ohio, there is no reason to feel absolutely secure. It therefore behooves everyone to be on guard and to take every precaution for preventing the spread of this scourge of childhood as soon as the first case appears."

One suspected case reported to the health commissioner several weeks ago has practically recovered and it is the belief of the physicians that the child's illness was due to two falls which it had suffered, rather than to infantile paralysis.

It has been unmistakably established, Dr. Weiser said, that infantile paralysis is transmitted the same as measles, scarlet fever, and other child diseases and knowing this, it is urged by the state department of health that children be kept in their own yards as much as possible during the summer and fall months.

GERMANY DETHRONES 1928 BEAUTY QUEEN

Berlin, Aug. 9—Germany has just gone through another revolution.

The beauty queen of this year, Fraulein Margot Lange, has been dethroned.

She was elected and crowned recently at Luna park, but the mob howled and raged when her election was announced and cried "Fraud."

It developed that her election was bought. The votes were cast not according to the principle of "one person, one vote" but each voter cast as many votes as he had purchased entrance tickets to Luna Park. Margot's backers, a movie company, were liberal and Luna Park never sold as many entrance tickets in its history.

An arbitration court has decided now that Margot's election is null and void and has charged the Reichsverband Deutscher Schauspielunternehmen with the task of supervising a new election.

Margot must return 1,000 marks and an automobile.

Monotony is not to be made light of, and has charged the Reichsverband Deutscher Schauspielunternehmen with the task of supervising a new election.

Margot must return 1,000 marks and an automobile.

Monotony is not to be made light of.

Almost any man would rather make money than be happy; and that's why choice he often has to make.

One wants people to take note of what he says, if it is only to disagree with it.

SECOND WARNING

Auto Clubs Again Urge Care in Making Repairs on Highways

Continued increase in automobile traffic on the rural highways, together with the fact that many of the states are lifting speed limits, has prompted the American Automobile association, through local auto clubs, to issue a second warning against the habit of making motor car repairs on the highways.

"Many of the states have a specific regulation requiring that the car driven at least half off the highway in such circumstances," Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto club, said today. "Of course it is impossible to station motorcycle policemen in positions to enforce this on every mile of the extensive highway system. It is a regulation, however, that should need no police enforcement. Based upon a sound principle of safety, the individual car owner should be willing to abide by it under every condition."

Marion Labor Union Gets Reports on Questionnaires Sent Primary Candidates

Only One Aspirant for Legislative Office Fails To Answer; Local Organization Refuses Indorsements in Conformity with Non-Partisan Policy

A questionnaire sent out by the Marion Central Labor Union to candidates for legislative offices has been answered by all but one of the candidates, according to report made at a meeting of the labor organization held at its hall on South Main st. last night.

It was announced that those sending answers were favorable to legislation sought by labor forces. The questionnaire was sent to candidates for representative to the general assembly, state senator and Eighth district congressmen.

The questions and answers, it was stated, will be filed as pre election commitments.

Several letters received from candidates seeking labor union indorsement were tabled in accordance with a non-partisan policy adopted by the local organization this year. It was announced that the non-partisan pre-primary campaign of labor forces in Ohio will close this week. Based on membership of the Ohio State federation, a minimum of 200,000 labor votes is possible in the coming primary. The state federation has not indorsed any candidate, it was stated at last night's meeting.

State Report

A report from the state federation announced that satisfactory answers to questionnaires had been received from all candidates for U. S. senator, none refusing to respond.

Questions asked if the candidates were in favor of the following:

"Amendment of the Sherman Anti-trust act, that labor, industry and agriculture may develop along normal constructive lines?

"Legislation to define the jurisdiction of equity courts and prevent the issuance of injunctions against labor and industrial disputes? Continuation of the present restrictive immigration policy and its progressive application as further needs develop? Constructive legislation for the rehabilitation of the coal industry? Advance planning of public work so that it may be initiated promptly as unemployment increases, and thus not compete with demands for workers in private industry? Federal legislation to prohibit within the state the sale of goods manufactured by convict labor in other states?"

Two new delegates were seated at last night's meeting of the Central Labor Union, one from Marion local, Machinists' union and one from Carpenters' Local Union, No. 976.

Advocate Law

Support was voted Masters' Barbers association in its efforts to have a model license law passed by the Ohio legislature at its next session. This is a health measure and was passed in Michigan and Illinois.

C. E. Findling, Hal Johnson, H. J. Chamberlain and George Eyers were appointed as members of the organization committee.

Tribute was paid to the memory of the late Rev. Frank P. George, Marion minister who met death by drowning last week. Following reading of resolutions on his death, the Central Union members stood with bowed heads for a two-minute period. During his residence here, the Rev. Mr. George took an active interest in labor's welfare and was a frequent speaker at organization meetings.

Stephen Hart, chairman of the Labor day committee, reported progress in plans for the celebration here. Two speakers have been invited and their acceptances are expected within a few days.

Due to activities of local labor organizations, the Central Labor Union will meet every Wednesday night until Sept. 12, it was announced.

in his endeavor to put an end to what he termed an improper alliance between legislative members and utility, lobbyists and their alleged influence upon the state legislature.

Fails to Reply

Numerous members of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, as friends of Congressman Begg, took vigorous exception to the recent issurance by Dr. E. J. Moore, superintendent of the league, of copies of a "sample" ballot which endorsed Cooper's candidacy. These protestants claimed that, due to his record in congress as a dry, Begg was entitled to the league's endorsement on a parity with that accorded Cooper.

Superintendent Moore replied that the endorsement of Cooper was in accord with an agreement, to which Begg was a party, made months ago.

Moore early today had not replied to a letter sent him by Lester D. Hill, Bowling Green, Wood county dry worker, adversely criticizing the league's endorsement of Cooper. Neither had Moore answered an open letter from the Rev. P. B. Cuppett, Delaware, asking that the league immediately rescind its endorsement of the candidacy of Congressman Martin L. Davey, Kent, for the Democratic nomination for governor. Declaring that Gov. Al Smith of New York, Democratic candidate for president, was being supported by Davey, the Rev. Mr. Cuppett charged that Davey obtained the league's endorsement "under false pretenses."

Candidates Talking

"It is evident you have many policies, but not any principle," Hill wrote Moore. "You endorse two dry candidates for the short term for U. S. senator (Marshall and Dick) when you called Burton wet on the other side." Moore was requested by Hill to explain whether the league applies one policy to G. O. P. gubernatorial candidates and another to other Republican candidates.

Begg, it was announced, will make addresses this afternoon and tonight at Cleveland while Cooper and Turner are scheduled to talk this afternoon at the Allen county Republican "homecoming" in Crites' grove, near Lima. Cooper also was to speak this forenoon at the Wayne county fair.

In an address at Akron last night, Begg stated that it was his ambition "not only to help Ohio keep step with the progress being made in other states, but for Ohio to set the pace." He stressed the need for a conservation program.

Praises Cooper

Turner, in an address at Cincinnati, expressed belief that "clean daft would be any Ohio political party that would attempt to turn the administration of the state over to he Anti-Saloon league, or its chosen candidate."

Cooper's qualifications for the governorship were praised by Mrs. Julia B. Foraker, Cincinnati, widow of former Gov. Joseph B. Foraker. "Just now Ohio needs a business man of large experience, and from every standpoint, Mr. Cooper is the best equipped in every way," she declared.

day was 88 degrees, highest peak reached any day this year. Yesterday, at the same hour, the thermometer showed 87 degrees.

General in Ohio

The same windless August heat from which Marion suffered yesterday hovered over all Ohio, weather reports from various sections of the state indicated today. One death and two prostrations in the state resulted from the heat yesterday.

Frank Masterson, 72, Brady Lake rd, near Ravenna, was found dead on his porch at noon. Excessive heat had affected his heart action.

When the temperature at Tiffin reached 93, one degree under the season's record, Jerome Scott, 70, Lorain salesman, suffered a sun stroke and collapsed as he was seeking a physician's office. A short time later Harry La Cour, 21, was stricken at Tiffin. He is reported to be out of danger.

Marysville experienced the hottest day of the year yesterday, the thermometer registering 93, topping by two degrees the high-mark set July 19.

RUSSIAN OFFICIALS VISIT LOCAL PLANT

Class Marion Water System as One of Best Seen in U. S. Tour

Only Small City on List

Marion is the only small city on the itineraty of the Moscow commission, which arrived in New York City on July 24 and will start back to Russia on Sept. 1. Prior to yesterday's visit to Columbus and Marion, the commission inspected water plants in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Washington.

From Marion the Russians went to Cincinnati and from there will go to Chicago.

The visitors were conducted through the local plant, located about three miles west of the city, by C. C. Whysall, superintendent of the water softening system.

In Columbus the Russians were guests of Mayor Thomas at luncheon served at the Columbus Athletic club. In addition to inspecting the water plant there, they visited the various municipal offices and other points of interest.

Although Moscow's population is almost 2,000,000 larger than Columbus, its water consumption is only about half as great, the visitors said.

Moscow is facing a serious water contamination problem and quest for a solution is one of the main objects of the commission's tour in this country.

650 SIGN PETITION IN MARION COUNTY

Seeks To Give Experienced Judges Benefit of Salary Increase

Approximately 650 signatures have been obtained to an initiative petition circulated in Marion county by Ted Ochs, local attorney. The petition has been circulated over the entire state as the first step in an attempt to place before the voters at the November election the question of enabling judges of Ohio courts to participate in salary increases during their term of office.

The petition circulated here by Ochs has been returned to the headquarters of the Ohio Bar association, which is backing the movement.

At present judges in Ohio are not entitled, during their term of office, to share in a salary increase voted by the state legislature. Backers of the movement point out that this feature of the state constitution places experienced judges under a handicap, as new judges, elected after any salary increase by the legislature, would, under those circumstances, serve at a higher salary than the experienced judges.

RESORT DESERTED SINCE EARTHQUAKE

Red Riveria Given Wide Berth by Vacationists Seeking Safer Places

Yalta, Crimea, Aug. 9—The Red Riviera, the beautiful Crimean shore of the Black Sea, is deserted. Terrorized by last summer's earthquakes which rocked the breakfast tables of vacationists every morning for weeks and sent thousand fleeing in panic, tourists are seeking safer resorts.

Rooms in pensions and private homes at the tempting rent of four and five dollars a month are begging for occupants. Restaurant proprietors are being forced out of business, and the entire population of a number of towns which depend for their income on summer visitors, are facing a winter of starvation.

Practically the only visitors to the Crimea this summer are workers sent by the government or trade unions to sanitoriums and rest homes, and many have flatly refused to go, preferring to spend the hot months in cities rather than run the risk of being hurled violently out of bed by an earthquake or having the hospital collapse beneath.

Few of the 15,000 houses wrecked by the 300 shocks last August and September, have been repaired. The report that the Crimea is slowly slipping into the sea has so rooted itself in popular belief that the statements of scientists pointing out that this is ridiculous and the shocks are not likely to be repeated this year, have failed to have any effect. All other resorts are crowded, but the Crimea is empty.

EXCAVATE TOMBS 5,000 YEARS OLD

How the ancient peoples of Ur and Chaldea lived and loved and fought 5,000 years ago were revealed by the University of Pennsylvania Museum expedition headed by Prof. C. Leonard Woolley, shown with Mrs. Woolley in the foreground of the picture at upper right, which includes the native excavators. The two photos at upper left show a silver rein-ring from a royal wagon and the sounding box of a harp inlaid with gold and lapis lazuli. Below is a statue of Queen Shub Ad, whose hairdress is curiously modern despite the barbaric ear trinkets; and, right, the Mosaic "standards of the kings of Ur," which depicts the army of the Summerians and the king and royal family at a feast. The bottom picture shows the head of a bull, the workmanship being thin gold over wood. The beard indicates the statue was a religious symbol.

FEAR ANOTHER STORM WILL SWEEP FLORIDA

Damage to Rich Citrus Belt Estimated at Five Million Dollars

PARTS ISOLATED

Scores of Towns Plunged Into Darkness by Storm

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 9—South Central Florida and the west coast were isolated today as the tropical disturbance that struck West Palm Beach and the east coast Tuesday and Wednesday hurled itself across the state toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Scores of towns in the rich citrus section were plunged in darkness last night when the 50-mile gale tore down power lines in an area of about 40 miles, from Winter Haven to Orlando.

Winter Haven, Kissimmee, Orlando, Lake Wales and many other little towns were in the path of the storm, and the same damage that was done at Jupiter, West Palm Beach, Fort Pierce and other cities on the east coast was done in the south central section and the west coast of the state.

Houses were unroofed, trees and shrubbery uprooted, windows broken, but the most damage was suffered by fruit growers and public utilities, such as railroads and power and wire companies.

No casualties were reported from anywhere on the storm front.

Damage which may exceed $5,000,000 was done on the east coast Tuesday night, when the storm swept an area of 200 miles. Hundreds of orange and grapefruit orchards were ruined in the vicinity of Vero beach, Stuart and Fort Pierce, and damage to property and public utilities was heavy.

Tampa Isolated

Tampa was isolated by the storm today and probably was in the teeth of it this morning.

Fort Pierce was hard hit by the storms, officials there estimating the property damage at $1,000,000, most of it in the business district. Newspapers at Fort Pierce and Vero beach were forced to suspend until power service could be resumed.

Stuart had a momentary scare of a flood of the St. Lucie river, but the water began to recede last night. Citrus growers suffered heavily here and a number of homes were damaged. Damage here was estimated at $1,000,000.

Jupiter reported nearly 50 per cent of its buildings damaged. The torrential rains flooded the streets and ruined the citrus crop.

Clean Up Debris

While the storm is believed to be pottering out, diminishing in its intensity on its sweep toward the gulf, the east coast towns began work of cleaning up the debris that littered their streets.

Palm Beach suffered comparatively little, being on the edge of the storm, and the greatest damage was between Stuart and Fort Pierce. These towns were visited by two storms, similar to that which hit Miami two years ago.

The first storm came shortly before midnight and after uprooting trees and jerking down wires and damaging roofs and buildings, there was a lull of about two hours and another blow fell with greater severity.

Theater Roof Blown Off

In Stuart the roof of the Lyric theater was blown off and scores of homes were damaged. Nearly every window in this town was broken.

Profiting by the havoc wrought in Miami two years ago, towns on the east coast since have taken out windstorm insurance, and thus their losses will not be so great.

REPAIR SHOP BOMBED

Chicago, Aug. 9—Explosion of a black powder bomb hurled in the doorway of a shoe repair shop here today wrecked a three-story building. William Tilkin, proprietor of the shop, told police that he thought the bomb was placed by a personal enemy.

SEARCH FOR CAR

Man at Point of Death After Being Hurled Out

Dayton, Aug. 9—Search for a small automobile in which a probable fatal battle was waged between at least two men was under way here today by police and county authorities. George Fragon, Dayton, is lying at the point of death in a hospital here from wounds suffered in the fight.

Fragon was thrown from the car near a farm house 10 miles out of Dayton, and found by motorists. He is unable to tell a coherent story of the attack, being conscious only at short intervals.

A petition has been filed in common pleas court by the board of trustees of the Mt. Zion Baptist church, of Marion, asking for permission to borrow not more than $4,000 to be used in building a new church. The loan is to be secured by a mortgage on real estate owned by the religious society.

The board of trustees is composed of James H. Hicks, Martin Jones and Kinzie Locke. They are represented by Attorney Louis E. Myers.

SHOW PROSPERITY IN NEW ENGLAND

Charts Indicate Expansion of Industry in Rugged States

Boston, Aug. 9 — New England is growing. Statistical proof that the rugged prosperity of the six states endures and constantly increases was shown by a series of three charts prepared by the Bureau of Commercial and Industrial Affairs of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. These charts, indexes of growth, are electric power production, population and bank clearings.

Electric power production is a prominent barometer. The production of electric power reflects the quantity of industrial activity with accuracy. It reacts sensitively to general fluctuations and does not register minor balancing fluctuations occuring among the industries. The electric power curve for New England has progressed steadily since 1921. In seven years, electric power, or, synonymously, manufacturing activity, has increased sixty-nine percent.

"Clearly," said the bureau, "New England is more than maintaining its always enviable position in industrial production. It is common knowledge that one or two of New England's hitherto mainstay industries have recently experienced declines of varying proportions. But while these declines are to be regretted, there are compensations. Modern economic theory claims that diversification, rather than specialization, of industry makes for the healthy manufacturing community. If New England's capital and labor cannot find outlet along some lines, it is fortunate that they can find other opportunities in new fields. The value of this theory as it applies to New England is convincingly brought out by the steady increase of production as measured by electric power.

"New England has shown a steady increase also in population."

Buggins: "I'm in a quandry. My rent has been doubled, and I can't afford to move." Buggins: "Oh, faith will move mountains." Buggins: "True; but I don't happen to own any mountains."

FORMER RESIDENT OF MARION DIES

Mrs. Lola Locke Succumbs at Columbus Hospital; Funeral Saturday

Word has been received here of the death yesterday morning at University hospital, Columbus, of Mrs. Lola Locke, wife of George Locke, both of whom formerly resided here. Mrs. Locke suffered from spinal trouble.

The body will be taken to Huntington, W. Va., tonight, for funeral services at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Locke is survived by her husband, a son, Robert, two sisters, Mrs. Lester Brickamire and Mrs. Elsie Altelser, of Columbus, a brother, Earl Nelson, of Columbus, her mother, Mrs. D. Keener, of Huntington, stepfather and four half-brothers, who also reside in that city.

CHILD DASHES IN FRONT OF CAB; MAY NOT LIVE

Columbus, Aug. 9—Childish desire for candy today was responsible for Mary Alice Meghey, 6, being in a hospital here with a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries which may prove fatal.

According to her sister, Helen, 8, Mary started to rush across the street near their home to spend a nickle at the corner grocery for candy, and misjudged the speed of an oncoming taxicab.

The driver, Curtis Patrick, swerved and crashed into a pile of coal in the street trying to avoid the accident. He was not held.

In the bright lexicon of youth there may be no such word as fail, but there are plenty of synonyms.

Mt. Gilead, Aug. 9—Miss Isobel Brown, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown, of near here, who disappeared from her home Tuesday, was found in Cleveland, yesterday afternoon, according to Sheriff Leslie Tischer, of Morrow county.

The girl was returned to her home today by her father who went to Cleveland yesterday following word from police of that city that she had been discovered.

Mr. Brown, in a statement to Sheriff Tischer, this morning, ordered the Morrow county official to discontinue the search for the persons who are believed to have taken the girl from her home. In a note left by the girl when she departed from her home, she said that she was leaving with a man and woman, but did not reveal their names.

She was reported to have been picked up by Cleveland police.

Columbus, Aug. 9—The formulation of a proposed aviation code for Ohio will be taken up at a meeting in Cleveland next week by the joint legislative committee in aviation, of the state legislature it was announced here today by State Representative David S. Ingalls, chairman of the committee.

The meeting is scheduled for Representative Ingalls' office in Cleveland next Monday.

Ingalls said today that his committee had been gathering data from many states pertaining to aviation, and "believes that the code to be drawn up will contain the best provisions possible." The measure is to be presented to the eighty-eighth session of the general assembly.

Members of the committee are Senators L. G. Collister, Cleveland; V. D. Emmons, Akron, and Miles S. Kuhns, Dayton; and Representatives Martin D. Dodd, Toledo and Earle L. Johnson, Cleveland, in addition to Ingalls.

Sympathy and Admiration.

The entire civilized world sympathizes with Italy over the terrible deaths which came to the members of the crew of her sunken submarine, the F-14. There is a horror about such a fate as that met by the two officers and twenty-nine men of the subsea vessel which can hardly be matched by death in any form—to be taken in the full vigor of life and entombed deep down beneath the waters of the sea.

But with this feeling of sympathy there must be, there is, another—one of profound admiration for the splendid salvaging work of the Italians in raising the submarine within thirty-four hours of the time of her sinking. We may be in error, but it is our impression that the achievement is without parallel in the history of submarine disasters. It demonstrated a preparedness for such an eventuality which is superb. That the thirty-one men in the F-14 were dead when the submarine was brought to the surface—victims of chlorine gas—in no way lessens world admiration of the salvaging achievement. Whether the gas was released as a result of damage done when the submarine was hit by the destroyer which sank her or escaped as the result of faulty construction matters not, the salvagers brought the disabled vessel to the surface with such dispatch as to evoke the respect and admiration of the shipping world. What such accomplishment was not crowned by the saving of the lives of the sea-entombed men is a regrettable misfortune, but bringing the vessel to the surface in less than a day and a half after the accident was suffered gives the Italian salvaging work a distinction which must be recognized regrettable as the outcome of its purpose turned out to be.

Were the United States navy achieved correspondingly as the time of our latest submarine tragedy, had it been so prepared and equipped that it might have made a like accomplishment, the over two score members of the vessel's crew probably would be alive and well today.

Hawaii Plans Cook Observance.

Hospitable Honolulu is planning to outdo itself with flowers and song this month—the fifteenth to the nineteenth, to be exact—in honor of Captain James Cook, the great circumnavigator who discovered the Hawaiian islands a century and a half ago. During the observance of the anniversary it is anticipated many thousands will make their first visit to America's western outpost.

This celebration, however, serves to center attention on the personality of one of the most interesting of the great explorers who have pushed back the frontiers of the unknown world. Cook not only was a discoverer, he was truly an explorer in surveying and mapping what he found and observing what he saw. To that he added the third, and immortal, distinction of finding a way to conserve the health of sailors, and thus enabled his countrymen to travel again the paths he laid out.

With San Francisco within a comparatively few hours of Marion by air, or within instant reach by twisting the dial on the radio, it is difficult for one here to believe that Cook was opening up the Pacific many years after the thirteen colonies had been settled, and that this Englishman was nosing his way along the shores of what now are Oregon and Washington and British Columbia and Alaska while the colonies were fighting their war of independence.

Familiar as every one now is with the idyllic setting of the South seas and the many curious customs of the natives, it is hard to realize the amazement of the voyagers with Captain Cook, the first to observe intimately the exotic life of Polynesia, or to comprehend the excitement their tales aroused when they returned to England.

Captain Cook not only discovered the Hawiian islands, when they were peopled solely by cannibals, but he met his death there after he had sailed up and down the Pacific, had crossed the Arctic circle, had touched many of the South sea islands and had been to Australia and back.

It seems that Cook, upon a return visit to the Hawaiians, got into difficulty with some of the natives, many of whom thought him the Deity. Some of Cook's seamen stole images and the like, and there were collisions between the crew of Cook's ship and the natives. Finally a native struck Cook over the head with a blunt instrument, and another stabbed him. Later on, some of the explorer's bones were returned to his shipmates, and were properly consigned to the Pacific as his last resting place.

Hawaiians today appreciate what the coming of Cook meant to the islands. And as a result the celebration later this month will be made as elaborate as possible.

There's another thing to be said for our ideal summer resort weather; it's consistent. When it's cool, it's cool, and when it's warm there is no question about it being warm.

A New York paper, which has been keeping tab on Mayor Walker, announces that he has put in almost three-fourths of a year traveling since he became mayor of the metropolis. There's one thing to be said for James; he's absolutely consistent in never permitting his mayoralty duties to interfere with his pleasures.

The United States bureau of engraving and printing has started producing the new-size dollar bills, but none will be issued until bills of two, five, ten, twenty and larger denominations have been produced, hence there is no immediate occasion for worry over the troubles our banker friends are bound to encounter as a result of two radically different sizes of paper money.

While fishing for tuna off the Rhode Island shore, a Connecticut business man hooked a 600-pound turtle eight feet long and, with the assistance of the crew of his boat, landed it after a three-hour battle. Which comes pretty close to our idea of a real fishing story.

The three-motor, 2,440 horsepower German seaplane, the Romar, the largest ever constructed, has been successfully tested near Berlin, and is said to be sufficiently powerful to carry not only enough fuel to cross the Atlantic easily, but to bear, as well, a number of passengers and considerable mail or baggage. The trial, however, was made under perfect weather conditions—conditions which are not always encountered in making ocean passages.

Seeking Self-Elimination.

It is difficult for the layman to imagine a profession as important as medicine which has for its major purpose its self-extinction. But according to Dr. W. J. Mayo, that is the purpose of the medical profession. He says the sole idea of medicine is to eliminate the need of a physician.

Medicine is actually progressing toward the ultimate complete elimination of disease and the prolongation of life. The attainment of that goal may be centuries away, but medicine and surgery have made long strides in that direction during the last century. Diseases such as smallpox, cholera, tuberculosis, yellow fever, scarlet fever and diabetes, once frightful scourges of the race beyond the power of medical science to check, are now falling back in disordered lines before the application of scientific methods.

Surgery today is safer than ever before because of improved antiseptic procedure and also because of greatly improved technique on the part of the surgeon. Millions of dollars are being spent in the conduct of extensive research work, and new and better diagnostic methods are being perfected almost every week.

The span of life is being lengthened, and will be lengthened even more as the science of medicine presses on toward its ultimate goal.

AN UNEXPPECTED FORM OF FARM RELIEF.

Bad Food Causes Ailments.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is safe to say the majority of infant ailments can be traced to bad food. Of first importance, of course, is the quality of milk given the baby. If there is the slightest taint there is trouble. There must be no half-way measures in this matter. Either the milk is good, or it is not.

An upset stomach is the least of the symptoms which follow the taking of improper food. Fever and constitutional symptoms will appear, too, if there is serious poisoning of the system.

But it isn't alone chemical poisoning or poisoning with germs, we need fear. These are bad enough, of course, but infected food may carry the eggs of various worms which will hatch and thrive in the intestine.

Of the several types of such worms, three forms are most commonly found in young children. They are known as tapeworm, the roundworm and the threadworm.

There are certain symptoms children sometimes have which we consider as among the chief signs of the presence of worms. This is true, no matter what type of worm may be present.

The first of these signs is picking at the nose. When a young child keeps fussing with the nose you must be suspicious of this disability.

Another common symptom is grinding of the teeth. It is surprising how much noise a sleeping child can make by grating the teeth together.

Itching and smarting and burning at the opening of the bowel are evidences of this form of infection. The child can not resist the impulse to scratch and rub the parts. These efforts will attract the attention of the parent.

The signs I have mentioned are those found in older children. In infants, long before the age when teeth appear, there are other symptoms, equally suspicious. Loss of appetite, disturbed digestion, tossing in bed and constant restlessness—these are other evidences of worms. Convulsions, too, are not uncommon.

You must bear in mind that the symptoms I have named do not prove the presence of worms. They merely suggest the possibility. Many a mother has been positive her child had worms when the whole trouble was due to wrong feeding.

There is no absolute certainty that the child has worms unless they are found in the stool. Careful inspection will reveal their presence.

Threadworms, or "seatworms," as they are called by some, look like short pieces of white thread. Roundworms resemble thick earthworms, five to ten inches long. Tapeworm is familiar to everybody.

When worms or parts of worms are found in the stool, all doubt is removed and your doctor will advise the treatment. He can direct a form of treatment that will relieve the trouble.

Editorial Comment.

THE STAGGERING CRIME BILL.

Even residents of Chicago and New York, accustomed to hold-ups and gang wars, will be surprised at the report of the Baumes Crime commission that the chances of being held up and robbed in Chicago are 100 times greater than in London, and in New York thirty-six times greater. To deal with this situation costs this country about $13,000,000,000 a year, including losses sustained in stolen goods, the costs of jails, courts and police and of all activities relating to crime and its prevention. The commission's only suggested remedy is more and better police. It advocates the employment of one policeman for every 500 of population and more and better schools for training them.

What the commision fails to take into consideration is the element of politics in city government. Everybody knows what happened in Chicago during the reign of terror there, and why. As soon as the public fully awakened to what was going on it registered its wrath in a single election, and crimes of violence immediately began to wane.

In New York there was a serious condition as regards crime for eight years. Then a single determined police commissioner, with no previous experience in crime fighting, drove out the invaders and restored order. Now the criminals have become active again, although there are more policemen on duty than when the force did its most effective work.

However numerous may be the criminals in a city, they are vastly outnumbered by honest people and can not operate when there is a general and organized effort to get rid of them. But such efforts are usually temporary. As soon as the public wrath is expended the crooks and gangsters come back, as do wild animals which have been driven from their prey by a fusillade from hunters. There is no doubt that the cities of the country need more and better trained peace officers, but more important than that is a general realization that a police force is just as good as the man at its head, and that he will be no better than the man who appoints him. When people become sufficiently frightened by crime waves they put an end to them. But they soon get over their fright and so the crime bill climbs year by year.—New York Herald Tribune.

"ONE TERM IS ENOUGH."—CALLES.

In a statement prepared for the American press, President Plutarco Elias Calles denies that he would be willing to remain in office as provisional president of Mexico for the next two years. He says "no" emphatically to the suggestion, bases his refusal on the constitutional maxim that one term is enough for any president of Mexico, and asserts that he will not lend himself to violation of the definite provisions of the constitution on this point. When his term comes to an end, he hopes to get out of politics and return to his dairy farm, of which he is fond.

Unless Senor Calles changes his mind before December, when his tenure of office expires, those among the politicians in Mexico who have singled him out for the part of provisional dictator must needs look elsewhere. True, other men have been mentioned in this connection, but nowhere on the political horizon has there appeared a personality of sufficient prestige and courage to undertake the perilous mission with a fair chance of success. As for calling a new presidential election before December 1, everybody in Mexico seems to be agreed as to the utter impracticability of such a course.

It seems clear that the Mexican congress will have an urgent and delicate task to perform if the distracted nation below the Rio Grande is not shortly to be left pilotless.—Detroit Free Press.

Two Planets.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

During July many persons practising, either by chance—which is well—or by necessity—which is not bad when it produces such a result—the virtue of rising before the sun have admired the spectacle presented by the close approach to one another of the planets, Mars and Jupiter, which were nearest together in the sky on the morning of July 4. They are now separating, but still both are in the same celestial neighborhood, and the opportunity for amateurs to become acquainted with them together continues.

Mars is next to the smallest member of the planetary family—Mercury only being smaller—while Jupiter is the unrivalled chief of that family, as far as size, mass, and majesty of aspect can make him so. In bulk and in mass he greatly exceeds all the other planets put together. Against Mars' diameter of 4,200 miles, Jupiter's is 88,000 miles. But Mars is now about 116,000,000 miles away, while Jupiter's distance is 438,000,000. Since apparent size and brightness vary inversely as the square of distance, you see at once what an advantage as far as appearance goes Mars derives from his relative nearness; and yet the real superiority of Jupiter is so great that in spite of his disadvantage he makes Mars look very small beside him. Yet Mars also outshines the fixed stars with his reddish light, so that both the planets are readily distinguishable from the stars in the sky around them.

Of one thing Mars can boast over Jupiter—namely, that many astronomers suspect that he is an abode of life; but that distinction is not accorded to his great neighbor.

These stars include some beautiful and historic constellations. The conspicuous square figure seen high in the eastern sky shortly after midnight is the "Great Square of Pegasus," and the first meridian of the heavens, that of the vernal equinox, which determines astronomical time and the march of the seasons, runs nearly straight through the two easternmost of the stars forming the square.

The line of bright stars starting from the northeast corner of the square mark the constellation of Andromeda, whose story is the most romantic of all the star legends of antique mythology.

Looking out of my eastern window this morning, Andromeda's starry form, on which both Jupiter and Mars seemed to gaze, appeared adorned with uncommon beauty by the crystal air over the Burgundian hills, and with the naked eye I could plainly discern that marvel of marvels, the Great Andromeda nebula, which astronomers are now nearly unanimous in regarding as a distant universe glittering in the depths of extra-galactic space, at a distance from us of at least a million light years. And as I glanced again at the two overlooking planets I could but wonder whether from them, too, eyes of God-given intelligence might be regarding this spectacle of starry immensity.

It seems a pity that so many persons should consider the stars as mere casuals, appearing haphazardly in the heavens—many one night, few the next—instead of what they are, the eternal landmarks of the cosmos, denoting in their congregated splendor the illimitable power of that supreme intelligence which formed not only one universe of billions of suns, but unnumbered others, their bright procession extending onward beyond the reach of thought.- Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 9—Sophistication is supposed to reach its plakest bloom in New York. Perhaps it does, but metropolitan sophistry is confined almost solely to amusing unessentials. The bachelor who is master of the frostiest cocktail is labeled a sophisticate.

Likewise the precisionist who insists upon a certain temperature for his bath. Or the fellow who would be desolated without brandy in his post-prandial coffee. What is so often rated sophistication is nothing more than affectation—a pose.

People go to the theater an hour late and rudely disturb the play. They put cigarets in elevators and hotel and theater foyers. Men pay fabulous sums for ringside tables.

And these flourishes come under the head of worldly nonchalance. In reality, they are glorified small-town smart-alecisms. The cracker-barrel comic in front of the general store is blood brother to the cavorting master of ceremonies in the Broadway night club.

Most hinterland antagonism toward New York is based on the city-slicker complex. It does not seem to realize that in the majority of instances the city slicker is an ex-apple knocker in urban settings. The real New York is little removed from the hick hamlet.

On account of its mammoth size, the accumulative wickedness gives it the super-saturated proportions of a modern Babylon. And somehow the metropolis has always been able to dramatize itself and take on a role of great glamor. But that is acting.

When one pierces the shiny armor, there is much of the stiff-necked New England village about the city. I know a man who resides in a Broadway hotel who will not turn on the radio on Sunday. And thousands of New York women look upon flappers who smoke like the Mauretania docking, with disgust.

* * *

Down-town New Yorkers little realize the bustling progress that has sprung up in the past few years on the upper tip of Manhattan island. A short distance from Spuyten Duyvil around Broadway and 181st street is a community as lively almost as that around Harlem's 125th street. The section is ramparted with enormous apartment houses with Pullman car names and uniformed door flunkies. There are theaters, cafes, movies and even night clubs. Smart specialty shops reflect the Fifth avenue modes, and coming down-town to shop is no longer so necessary.

* * *

There are enterprising city salesmen in New York who cover their territory in the manner of salesmen covering a state. To be early on the job they go from hotel to hotel in various districts. Week-ends are spent at home.

* * *

A business man at lunch yesterday told of calling his executives into conference and announcing his plan for a year's vacation. All agreed with enthusiasm he should take the rest. Indeed, there was too much enthusiasm, and over night he decided to remain on the job.

* * *

To me his attitude was unjust. Employers like to prattle about the desire for employes who are not "yessers." But the fate of the majority of those who oppose the boss is a dreary hunt for a job. So the wise ones "yes."

I once wrote a critical letter to the publisher of a newspaper on which I was employed. The effort was to show how his journal might be improved. The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Standardized houses, produced and delivered like automobiles, are predicted by a prophet of progress. Already there are such houses to be had, but he sees them coming into general use. The question is whether he is really a prophet of progress in this respect. Progress has to be something more than a speeding-up progress. It has to be something more than change. In lines which ought to permit of real self-expression there is too much standardization now. What is more dreary and deadly than a row of houses that are all alike. The death of self-expression and the opportunity for self-expression is death, indeed.

Nobody is astonished to learn that the Wisconsin girl who promised to wed a wealthy man in return for his generosity to her parents has decided she is sick of her bargain and is not going on with it. "I am sick of money, for I find it brings only trouble," she says.

Of course she isn't quite fair by money. It brings much more than trouble. It relieves a great deal of trouble. While it can not buy happiness, it can make a wondrous contribution to happiness. In her bitterness the Wisconsin girl loses her perspective and misplaces her emphasis. Money is all right and properly to be desired—even in large quantities—but to help toward happiness it must be well adulterated with brains.

Morrow County Candidates Increase Campaign Efforts As Primary Election Nears

Political Fog Surrounding Outcome of Contests Is Thickened by Office-Seekers; H. F. Ault, of Mt. Gilead, Running for Fifth Nomination

Mt. Gilead, Aug. 9—With the primary day nearing candidates from Morrow county are increasing their campaign efforts and the political fog surrounding the outcome of several hotly contested nominations is becoming thicker as interest grows for the various office-seekers.

Much interest has been taken in the surveyor contest here in which D. H. Richardson, present incumbent, and W. H. Ramey, backed by interests of a former administration, are contending. Mr. Richardson has a very creditable record to back his nomination, while Ramey is well known as an engineer of outside road construction and grading.

The fight for nomination as county commissioner is also contested hotly. Ray Curl, present incumbent, is contesting with W. L. McGaughey, Chester township, J. S. Appleman, North Bloomfield township, Hugh Armstrong and Adolph Walker, both of Perry.

H. F. Ault, of Mt. Gilead, is seeking his fifth nomination as representative in the assembly, contesting with County Commissioner J. F. McClarren, of Washington township, and F. O. Van Sickle, of Westfield township.

T. A. Campbell, present clerk, is contested for position of clerk of courts by Paul Campbell, local insurance man. Both candidates are well known here.

Probate Judge Ethel Elder, Prosecuting Attorney F. L. Myers, and Treasurer S. G. Shambaugh are uncontested at the primaries, while J. S. Stickle, Cardington, has no opponent for the nomination for sheriff.

Democratic interest, which has not paralleled the interest of the opposing party, centers around the race of O. E. Brenneman and B. F. Powell for legislature.

ECZEMA ON FACE AND BODY

For Years, Itching and Burning Fierce. Healed by Cuticura.

"I had eczema for years. It used to break out every once in a while on my face and different parts of my body. It was in the form of a rash and itched and burned something fierce. Scratching caused it to spread.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it helped so much that I purchased more, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Hazel Shellenberger, R. R. 11, Main St., Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 20, 1928.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

TURNING A HOUSE INTO A HOME

CONSIDER, my Daughter, the way of a woman with a new house.

• • •

Lo, she shoppeth and sweepeth and teareth around wildly by day. And, by night, she lieth awake, dreaming of curtains and draperies and wallpapers and color-schemes.

• • •

She planneth a new ingle-nook on her way to church—and changeth it around again during the sermon.

• • •

She matcheth cretonnes during the Doxology, and saith her prayers with one eye on heaven and the other on a new tea-set.

• • •

She goeth about with a shopping list in one hand and a hammer and a paint brush in the other. She revelleth in the opening of packages; she floateth in a sea of bargains and excelsior and new "ideas."

• • •

Twenty times a day doth she rearrange the living room rugs—and put them back again. Forty-seven times a day doth she find a new corner for the tea-wagon. And for the china closet. And for the easy chair. And for the Chinese lamp.

• • •

Behold, when her husband cometh in in the evening, it is as though he walked in a strange land, amid strange and curious objects. He knoweth not his left hand from his right hand, nor where to find his favorite chair nor his one hook in the closet.

• • •

When he ariseth in the night he is as one that wandereth in a strange and fearsome forest of furniture, which springeth at him from unexpected corners and maimeth him in new places

• • •

His pipe and his shoes and his brushes become nomads, wandering from room to room and from place to place. They are more elusive than the hare and shyer than the fawn.

• • •

But upon Sunday morning, he taketh them all down again, one by one, and hangeth them in DIFFERENT places. For they are never right the FIRST time!

• • •

In the morning, he ariseth, and setteth up the twin beds in the guest-room. But in the evening, he moveth them over to the OTHER side of the wall, where they "look more natural."

• • •

And not until his wife's heart and eyes are satisfied is there rest and peace and tranquility within the house.

• • •

Thus, my Daughter, is a house transformed into a HOME.

• • •

For a house consisteth of four walls and sticks of furniture and pieces of crockery and yards of cretonne. But a Home is born of the toil and travail of a woman's soul and the dreams of her heart! SELAH!

TOURIST BOOK LISTS PLACES OF INTEREST

Denver Bureau Prepares Volume as Guide for Travelers in West

Denver, Aug. 9—The vacationist who comes to Denver to "take in the sights" had better plan on remaining about five months or to come back four or five times, if he wants to see them all. For the Denver Tourist bureau has just issued a 64-page booklet, entitled "Vacation Days In and Out of Denver," in which are listed, among other things, 150 one-day trips by rail or motor to the nearby Rockies.

The invitation to tourists breathes of a western welcome through a "magic passport to the Colorado Rockies, Sunset wreathed and moonlight silvered."

Throughout the booklet there is want to come back again and again, the appeal to make the vacationist the very very thing for which Denver is regarded as a distinctive vacation center by travel authorities. They say it sustains Denver's enviable position as the nation's ideal vacation center.

"Few, if any other cities can match Denver's long list of sight-seeing trips, its hotels and nearby resorts, much less excel in their advantages," said H. Brown Cannon, president of the Tourist Bureau. "Denver is distinctively a scenic gateway with a choice of about 150 trains and auto trips of a day or less."

In the booklet, which contains an attractive cover in colors depicting the verdure of the hills, snowcapped and alluring, and the glow of sunset lighting up the heavens, there is a list of 50 places of attraction to visit in the city itself, 16 scheduled one-day return trips into the hills by automobile or train and 30 trips by auto to lakes in this region.

There are 104 side trips listed, short or long drives in the near Rockies for travelers coming in their own automobiles. But none of the trips need require more than a single day for the complete journey, if travelers wish to return to Denver for the night.

KEEP YOUR HANDS OUT OF WATER, EXPERTS ADVISE

No Longer any Need for Scouring and Scrubbing

Lye Now Used to Replace the Strenuous Old-time "Soap, Steel Wool and Muscle" Method

Seeing what the three-times-a-day job of scouring greasy pots and pans have done to their mothers' hands and looks, young wives of today use a new method.

Noting how lye melted grease from their garbage pails like snow from a hot stove, they determined to use it for pots and pans. To do so they knew they must keep their hands out of the water. But they shed no tears on this account. Now, in ten seconds, they swash clean a big broiler that took their mothers ten minutes of hard scouring.

Red Seal Lye is their favorite. Its sales have grown by leaps and bounds because it is 97% pure—the purest, quickest acting lye made.

Try this clever new idea. Now, while you are thinking about it, jot down "Red Seal Lye" on your grocery list for tomorrow. Make up your mind you are going to end forever this useless scouring.

A ROMANCE OF GRIPPING HUMAN INTEREST

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

ANNE MORROW came into the shop the next day.

She had grown into a tall young woman with a flat figure, and slightly bored eyes over cool eyes that gave her a look of great hauteur.

She made a point of keeping a jump ahead of the styles. Her hat was redder and more tilted than the one with which Avis Rossiter had astonished the town. She drove a roadster that was a little too green and had more nickle on it than the one belonging to Avis.

Emily had noticed of late that not many names of Anne's old friends were printed in the society column account of affairs she gave, but that more important ones—some from the River road—were taking the place of those. And she had heard it said the Morrows were thinking of moving out of their home on Brookside and into one of the villas out toward Rossiter's.

Every day she would catch sight of Judge Morrow through the dusty windows of his office almost across the street from the shop. He looked exactly as he always had and sometimes she wondered if the judging business paid so awfully well.

She knew, of course, that Morrow was a great personage. The Lyall Star always called him "that sterling citizen and prominent politician" and quoted his opinion on everything.

And once when the opposing newspaper, the Item, said some scathing things about the Judge, Emily asked Marty for information.

"What's a 'party machine', Marty?"

"Organized politics. Why?"

"Well, the Item said Judge Morrow controlled it and called him 'Big Boss'."

"Of course. They don't like him." Humor gleamed in the tawny eyes; he was painstakingly condescending. "Better not bother with that, Em."

"Oh, because I'm a girl! I suppose you think women have no right to be interested in government."

"It's a man's game. Women have their homes."

"Good homes and good government depend on each other." She had heard Frances say that once. But he wouldn't argue.

"The Judge is all right. Don't worry about him, Em."

That didn't stop her thinking, however. Often she had seen Marty going into Morrow's office and he was friendly with Anne. He seemed the one person outside the River road set whom Anne wished to cultivate. Of course he would speak well of Anne's father.

This went through her mind as Anne came into the shop and began to look around. Emily stepped from the dye room removing her gloves, and the two girls came face to face for the first time since their school days.

Anne decided to be gracious. "So nice to see you, dear. I don't run across you anywhere."

"No." With a little smile. "You wouldn't run across me."

The other girl flushed and dropped her eyes. And a memory came at Emily: children in a school yard, laughing a lot, saying funny things to each other; children going for pussy willows. One ready to fly.

"Have to run home and tell Muz, Anne. You didn't say anything—"

And this girl who stood here looking down, flushing. "Just our own crowd, Em. Sorry. Let you know—"

Emily hadn't recalled that for years, but now it came back. Anne had the power to wound her then. Still it was over now; their ways wouldn't cross again.

But even while she told herself this she had a curious feeling that they would come together some time, some place.

"You're employed here? Mrs. Haiden isn't in?"

"I'll take care of you." The pale head went up a bit with that.

Anne wished to match a piece of brocade. While Emily got it for her she chattered. "Dear Avis is coming home next week. She'll be at Higacliffe for the season. Such a love—"

Anne hadn't thought her a "love" in the old days when Avis put her nose in the air and wouldn't so much as look at any of them, Emily reflected. Somehow the "dear Avis" touch didn't ring quite authentic. Anne might have much but honesty wasn't part of it. Snob—oh, a pitiable thing.

Now Kent's name entered the flow of talk. "Coming back to take his bar examinations. You remember Kent? But of course!" The old malice was in Anne's smile.

"He isn't going to stay in Paris after all—be here in a week or so. Going in with a New York law firm they say. So pleasant to've seen you, dear"

Emily put out the tip of her tongue at Anne's back. A small girl grimace it was and she laughed as she caught sight of herself in a mirror.

"Puss, puss! Oh, what's the matter with me? I know better than to let anything she can say bother. Living always in Just Pretend, and not such a pleasant one as I had. Not pleasant at all but all full of fears that she can't pretend enough to fool herself.

"And I wonder where Marty fits in? Does she still like a "type"—"red-blooded, two-fisted—" And Emily laughed again at that.

But one thing Anne had said didn't make her feel merry. Kent would come in a week or so. He would come here to Lyall—live in this same town where she lived. Perhaps she'd see him this time; perhaps he'd remember her and speak. . . .

She hurried home that evening and got out the Japanese box. One by one she went over the old clippings, the rotogravures, the picture post-cards. She held each long, loving it, putting it down carefully.

And after she had placed the box away a whimsical impulse made her reach the top of her little desk, pick up a crystal glass standing there, and turn it down.

She'd had an engagement with Coles that evening; they were to have the postponed drive and dinner at an inn up Storm King Road. But she telephoned him and put arrangements over to the next night.

Late in the evening she tried to get Kitten to go for a walk but Kitten was sullen. So Emily threw a scarf over her shoulders and started out alone.

She went down Highmount, intending to stroll a little way on the River road. But in the deep shadow half down the hill she found Stella.

"That you, Em? Well—"

"For heaven's sake! What is it, Stell?"

Stella began to cry. "He said he'd come tonight. I saw him today on the street—ran after him and made him promise. And I've waited more than an hour."

"Oh, my dear! But he might have mistaken the place."

Stella caught at that, began to hurry forward. "You think so? Never thought of it—of course. Telephone him. You'll come with me, Em—"

Terrible to love in such a way! "I must never love so—a ghastly thing to be hurt—" Emily kept thinking this as they went on and found a telephone.

After a long time Stella turned from the instrument, her face gray. "He's gone down to New York," she said. "This afternoon—must have left right after I saw him. He didn't intend to come, didn't intend to see me—"

She followed Emily home, still and limp, like one whose soul has died.

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

TODAY me and Jubilee woke up and looked at each other a long time, and then I kicked him out of bed and got up and went out in the attic and got his rope and let him down out of the window by the rope in his teeth, and then I put on my short britches and went down to get the milk pail and milked the dummed brutes, and I had to laugh about how Feeble fooled us all yesterday and made us think she was a hypnotizer.

It wasn't because we are any smarter than the Lost Bag of Tripe that she didn't catch some of us, because we all believed her, and we were all kinds, hoping she would choose us to be the one to be left floating in the air. But she has got it in for the Lost Bag of Tripe because of what he done over to Younisses when she was setting on the step and he crawled under the house with the hose. A fella that is always handing something to someone else is bound to get something for himself if he keeps on long enough.

Nibs and Hopper and Peanuts were in the barn already when me and Jubilee got there and they had already put the stool by the side of the cow for me to set on whilst I milked her, and while I was milking her and when I had almost finished the girls and the rest of the bunch came in, and Nibs began doing an imitation of Feeble, and he said: "Thomas Aristides, I can hyptonize you so that we can take the stool away and leave you hanging in the air, if you won't be mad," and I said, "Hop to it. I won't be mad or bite my tongue or anything." And before I had got to the barn they had tied the barn rope onto the milking stool and covered it up with hay and barn dirt so I couldn't see it leading across the barn floor. So then he asked me if I was quite ready to hang in the air, and I kept on milking and said I was ready, because I thought we were joshing the Lost Bag of Tripe, and then Nibs gave the rope a jerk that jerked the stool all the way out from underneath me and I sot down so hard I jarred the barn, and when I fell I jerked the milk pail so sudden that a lot of the milk went in my face and ran down the front of my clothes.

Nibs was laughing when I got up, but when he seen the look in my eye he almost busted the doors down getting out of the barn and skinning out. And then I began to laugh and everyone hollered when they saw I wasn't mad. A fella is a bum sport if he gets mad when the joke is on him. I bet I fooled Nibs more than he fooled me. It was slick of him to think it up. I didn't think anyone but the Lost Bag of Tripe had brains enough to do that.

I went upstairs and pulled Jubilee up early, and we laid down and waited for the world to turn over.

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Fourteenth Shopping Orgy Continues

THERE was such joy, amounting almost to rapture, in Mary Harrison's face and voice that I felt repaid and justified for the way I had stretched and embroidered the truth concerning the brown leather jacket.

For neither had I worried over her birthday gift as I had given her to believe, nor planned to spend as much money as I was paying for the jacket. But I suddenly had been convinced that she was not trying to evade Dicky's mandate to spend all the money he had given her on clothes. She simply was scheming to make that gift go as far as possible in replenishing her sadly depleted wardrobe, and the wistful look in her eyes as she put aside the coveted jacket had been too much for me. I would withhold judgment until I could find out her real reason for her unaccountable parsimony, and I would own that she had the jacket for which her girlish soul longed.

"You may send this jacket out," I told the saleswoman, giving her the address while Mary was chokingly trying to thank me and protest against the gift at the same time.

"You're sure that's the jacket you want, Marion," Lillian said briskly, relieving the tension.

"There couldn't be any other one as nice," Marion returned, giving herself a joyous little hug.

"Then suppose you take it off," her mother advised, "unless you expect to wear it home."

"I'd like to," Marion answered promptly, "but the thermometer is a bit high for leather."

She reluctantly pulled herself out of the coat and handed it to the saleswoman. After directing that the two jackets be sent together, Lillian looked at her watch.

"We've just time to go down to the hosiery department," she said. "They usually have very good things here. Then we must get down to the hotel."

"I must spend some of my money there," Mary said. "I need stockings badly."

An elusive memory flitted through my brain. I caught and fixed it, then realized that Mary's nightly laundering of her silk stockings which I had observed, had not been due so much to her observance of the advice to wear no pair of silk stockings without immediately laundering them, as to the necessity of keeping perhaps her only pair in good condition.

At the stocking counter where some really alluring bargains were displayed, she hesitated, plainly attracted by some of the delicately beautiful tints. Then she shook her head resolutely.

"I must get the ones which will go with everything," she said half to herself, and ordered three pairs of black and three pairs of a light beige. When she paid for them she asked to take one of the beige stockings with her, and I knew that she meant to choose her frocks in harmony with the serviceable color of the hose.

"Marion's stocking problem is simple," Lillian said as with Marion's aid she made swift selections. "The pupils at that school must wear white for all evening occasions, and serviceable wool or cotton hose for school and sports. But as I hate ugly things as much as my daughter does I compromise and get her sport stockings for all other occasions but evening. We'll wait and get the ones for traveling after we've decided on your coat and frock," she told Marion.

"That suits me," Marion returned. "Stockings aren't interesting, anyway. I'm wild to get to the hats."

"Those must wait until after luncheon," her mother said firmly, with another glance at her watch. "And we mustn't delay any longer. We'll barely have time now, Madge, to look over that suite before our men meet us."
